HITLER LEAVES TO TAKE MEMEL

Sewer System Survey Opens Tomorrow

MARION FIRM GETS JOB ON $1,950 OFFER

Acts at Once to Expedite Long Sought Project as Council Puts O. K. on Contract.

BASIS FOR BOND ISSUE

Survey City's First Step to Rehabilitate Old System; Must Finish by June 1.

Faced with a June 1 deadline, Floyd G. Browne and Associates, Marion sanitation engineers, tomorrow will begin a comprehensive survey of Mansfield's antiquated sewer system, Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist announced today.

The survey will serve as a basis for a proposed sewer bond issue which is slated to be placed on the August primary ballot. The bonds would finance the rehabilitation of the system that has been a headache of city administrations for years.

Authorized By Council.

Nist was authorized by city council at a special meeting last night to enter into a contract with the Marion firm to conduct the survey for $1,950.

While the contract probably will not be signed for at least several days, Nist said that actual work would begin at once in order to expedite the survey.

The contract will call for completion of the work by June 1 and will provide for payment upon approval of the final report by the State Department of Health.

Agrees To Use Mansfielders.

Nist told council last night that the company had agreed to use Mansfield engineers on the survey wherever possible.

An informal bid of $2,500 submitted by Rollin F. MacDowell, Cleveland sanitary engineer, was not considered by council after Nist had informed them that the Browne firm was acceptable to the State Department of Health.

Council, with eight members present, passed the emergency measure unanimously in a 12-minute sesison that came near approaching the eight-minute record set last summer at a special Saturday night meeting.

The legislation authorizes an ap-

Demands Trial By Jury On Charge of Intoxicated Driving

A jury in municipal court will determine if Richard M. McGee, 46, of Loudonville, is guilty on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

The case which was to have been heard today was postponed when Atty. James V. Will, counsel for the defendant, filed a motion requesting a trial by jury. No date has been set for the hearing.

McGee was arrested at 2 a. m. Sunday on U. S. route 30, east of Mansfield by State Highway Patrolmen R. I. Governor and C. W. Smith. He was brought to police headquarters and later released on $500 bond.

The officers charged that McGee had run off the highway while they were following his car.

SHERWOOD WAITS

He'll Decide In 'Next Few Days' on Ouster Possibility.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood said he has studied all evidence obtained in an investigation of alleged "unwarranted conditions" at Ohio penitentiary and indicated today that he would decide "in a few days" whether ouster proceedings would be brought against Warden James C. Woodard, suspended March 2 for 30 days.

SNARES BOBCATS

Idaho Youth Catches Them Alive With His Coat.

HAMER, Idaho—(AP)—Ab Landon has a new system of catching bobcats alive.

Landon hunts on horseback. When he spies a bobcat he slips off his coat, drops from his horse as he comes alongside—like a cowboy bulldogging a steer—and covers his prey with his coat. He's snared three that way.

Fish Rain Down On House Roof

ONTARIO, Cal. — (U.P.) — It rained fish—it really did.

Mrs. Iola Martin heard a thumping on her roof and went outdoors just in time to dodge a dozen fish sliding off.

Overhead flapped a flock of cranes and it was believed the birds dropped the fish, tired of carrying them from Reservoir lake some miles away.

PAROLES NEAR FOR RICHLAND TWINS, SLAYERS

Wilbur and Willard Pettit Due to Be Released; Served 14 Years for Killing.

Paroles from the Ohio penitentiary loomed today for Wilbur and Willard Pettit, twin brothers, of Sharon township, who have served 14 and 15 years, respectively, for the murder of John Payne near Shelby on Dec. 26, 1923.

Judge H. W. Jewell, member of the Ohio parole board, told The News-Journal today that applications for parole for the brothers will be heard Thursday and asserted that "everything is in their favor."

It was learned that members of the parole board "sounded out" public sentiment for the release of the brothers yesterday when the board was in Mansfield to consider cases of reformatory prisoners.

Favorable Reaction.

While Judge Jewell said the board had no recommendations for parole of the Pettits, it was learned that the board received a favorable reaction yesterday to its inquiries concerning the advisability of releasing the brothers.

Prosecutor G. W. Marriott, who did some "scouting" for the parole board yesterday in the Shelby vicinity, said he found little sentiment against the parole of the brothers. The prosecutor reported his findings to the board last night.

He declined, however, to be quoted as saying he would recommend parole of the Pettits.

The brothers, now at the Lebanon honor camp, have been model prisoners and nothing apparently stands between them

SWELL OUT, EH?

Fledgling Spring Begins to Warm Up to Fit Season.

Although it's only a fledgling, spring got right down to business today, boosting the temperature to 40 degrees at noon and showing prospects of doing even better by tomorrow.

Doing all he can to help, the weatherman forecast fair and warmer for tonight and Thursday.

From a top reading of 46 degrees yesterday, the first day of spring, the mercury skidded to 27 last night when the wind suddenly shifted to the east. The average temperature for the past 24 hours was 36.5 degrees, about four degrees below normal.

HITS BRICKER'S 'FALSE ECONOMY'

Ferguson Says He'll Hold Up Checks of New UCC Workers.

EAST LIVERPOOL — (U.P.) — State Auditor Joseph Ferguson charged Gov. John W. Bricker with "false economy" and termed "unconstitutional" the recently enacted law reorganizing the state unemployment commission in an address at an Eastern Ohio Democratic club rally here last night.

"No salaries have been paid to persons appointed to positions in the reorganized unemployment compensation commission and none will be paid unless the attorney general rules the law is constitutional," Ferguson said.

BOY IN DANGER

Might Lose Eyesight Because of Explosion of Chemicals.

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Doctors feared today that 14-year-old Edmond Borneman, junior high school honor student, might be permanently blind because of an explosion of chemicals he was mixing in his attic laboratory. The boy was said to have been making toy torpedies with his amateur chemical apparatus.

Memel---Handed to Hitler By Lithuanians

Memel, Lithuania's only outlet to the Baltic sea, shown above, today was returned to the German Reich in Chancellor Adolf Hitler's second triumph within a week. Lithuania consented to the return of Germany's war-lost colony as the "only expedient solution for conciliation." The territory includes about 1,000 square miles with a population of 150,000, mostly Germans. In connection with plans of European democracies to unite in a "Stop Hitler" drive, President Albert Lebrun of France is making a three-day state visit to London. The radiophoto at the left shows King George VI riding with President Lebrun after the latter's arrival in London.

Approves Inquiry Into WPA

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The house rules committee approved a resolution today directing the appropriations committee to make a "thorough investigation" of the Works Progress administration. Members said the rules committee voted overwhelmingly for the proposal, with only three or four of those present in opposition.

BERLIN—(UP)—Germany maintained official silence today regarding the United States note of protest against Germany's annexation of Czechoslovakia. However, it was said at the propaganda ministry that the note would be rejected, just as were those from Britain and France.

Ex-U. S. Judge Denies Bribes

NEW YORK—(UP)—Martin T. Manton, resigned senior judge of the second U. S. circuit court of appeals, pleaded not guilty today to federal charges that he accepted bribes to influence his court decisions. He furnished $10,000 bail.

NEW YORK—(AP)—John L. Lewis firmly declared himself today against any dissolution of the Congress for Industrial Organizations "as the price for labor unity" in this country. "The CIO and its many organizations," he said, "do not propose to cut themselves up into a multitude of pieces to become associated with the American Federation of Labor."

Nazis Make Best Planes, U. S. Told

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The government's national advisory committee on aeronautics has informed congress that the United States no longer builds the best airplanes in the world—that position now goes to Germany. This was disclosed today when the house appropriations committee made public testimony by NACA officials.

HUNT NEW TAX SOURCES FOR OHIO RELIEF

Assembly Committee Takes Steps Despite Bricker's Opposition to Levies.

STUDIES 6 SUGGESTIONS

One-Cent Increase in Sales Tax, Hikes in Other Levies Proposed to Group.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Recommendations that the state appropriate another $5,000,000 from the sales tax annually, that it surrender to local government all inheritance taxes and that passale of extra real estate levies be made easier as a means of financing a poor relief program in 1939 and 1940 were made today by the league of Ohio municipalities.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Despite Governor Bricker's announced opposition to broadening local taxing authority the point relief committee continued today to canvass possible new sources of revenue to enable grants under a biennial poor relief program.

Suggestions submitted to the committee included those to give authority to subdivisions to:

1. Levy a maximum additional 10 per cent amusement tax, estimated to raise from $2,500,000 to $5,000,000 in 12 counties where relief needs are heaviest.

2. Impose county taxes on Billboard advertising.

Would Boost Sales Tax.

3. Increase the sales tax by one cent.

4. Levy an occupational tax.

5. Allow metropolitan counties to use 25 per cent of their motor vehicle tax proceeds for relief in case of a shortage of other funds to match state allocation.

6. Lower from 65 per cent to 51 per cent in 1939 and to 55 per cent in 1940 the vote requirement for passage of special real estate levies for relief only, the levies not to exceed one and one-half mills.

J. M. Hodson, of the Ohio Farm Bureau, suggested the amusement and billboard taxes and also recommended that the legislature consider restoring from one-fourth cent to one-half cent per six ounces tax on 3.2 beer.

Both latter proposals also were submitted as amendments to the

MORRIS, SHELBY LEADER, DIES

Mayor for Five Terms, Council Member Was Prominent in Business, Politics.

Councilman Charles E. Morris, 69, prominent Shelby resident and a former mayor of the neighboring city, died early this morning at Shelby Memorial hospital following a brief illness. He was stricken with influenza three weeks ago and uremic poisoning developed. Monday he was removed the the hospital.

Mr. Morris had been active in political affairs for a number of years and was a leader in civic programs. He served as mayor of Shelby for 10 years, three terms, starting in 1915 under the old village form of government and was the first mayor under the charter form of government, serving two more terms. He was elected councilman-at-large in 1935 and re-elected in 1937. For a number of years he was a member of the Richland County Republican executive committee.

A deputy registrar of motor vehicles for a number of years, he was recently reappointed. He also

Elliott Roosevelt Sees Dad Right After Garner Talk.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Elliott Roosevelt, second son of the president, was in New York today after a White House visit with his father, leaving behind him no traces of agitation because, in the course of a recent Texas radio broadcast, he singled out Vice President John N. Garner as the outstanding Democratic presidential possibility for 1940.

The White House refused to be smoked out on chances of a third term for President Roosevelt, even though son Elliott has made page one of all Metropolitan newspapers with his frank discussion of the "differences" which have arisen between his father and Garner over Democratic party policy.

There was no comment on Elliott Roosevelt's radio remarks. All of the president's children, it was explained, are over 21 and free to do, say and think what they please. This is the paternal attitude the chief executive has adopted for a number of years.

Lithuania Gives In, Cedes Baltic Port to Germany

Lithuanians Surrender to Strong Nazi Pressure; Chancellor to Board Ship For Triumphal Entry Into Newly Acquired Territory On Coast.

BULLETIN

KAUNAS—(AP)—The little republic of Lithuania surrendered Memel, the seaport she acquired after the World war, to the advancing German reich today in answer to what semi-official sources said was a threat that her entire state would be taken over if she did not comply.

BULLETIN

BUCHAREST, Rumania—(AP)—Germany and Rumania signed a trade treaty tonight. Rumanian officials jubilantly announced that the country's "political and economic independence" had been preserved under the terms of the treaty. Details were not announced.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—Adolf Hitler left Berlin today presumably en route to board the battleship Deutschland at Swinemeunde for a triumphal trip by sea to Memel, his newly acquired Baltic seaport.

By choosing this mode of travel the fuehrer will emphasize both Germany's growing power as a maritime nation and avoid crossing what may be another objective of Germany policy before long—the Polish Corridor.

Hitler left Berlin shortly after Lithuania capitulated to Nazi pressure and agreed to cede Memel, Germanic territory acquired in the post-war settlements, back to Germany.

Swinemeunde is Germany's Baltic sea-base 120 miles north of Berlin.

DNB, the official German news agency, in a Kaunas dispatch this morning said that Lithuania had decided to return the 1,000 square mile territory with 150,000 mostly German population as the "only expedient solution for conciliation."

Announces Surrender.

The agency subsequently published the communique issued by the Kaunas government and delivered here through the Lithuanian telegraphic agency, formally announcing agreement to surrender Memel.

Reliable quarters in Kaunas, the Lithuanian capital, had said last night that the government decided to yield to agitation for the return of Memel. (Victor Gailius, governor of the Memel territory, said that Germany issued a virtual ultimatum demanding cession of the territory to Germany, Kaunas dispatches related.)

The Lithuanian decision came just one week after Dr. Emil Hacha, president of the now vanished Czechoslovakia republic, placed Bohemia and Moravia under German protection—a step which brought protests from the United States, Britain, France, and Soviet Russia and resulted in a vigorous Nazi press counter-attack upon those powers.

The Memel question — bound

LONDON: Will Hitler Slow Up? Europe's Democracies Wonder

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—Britain is considering the possibility of calling a special meeting of the council of the League of Nations to consider Germany's march toward European domination, Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare told the house of commons today.

(By United Press)

LONDON—Negotiations for a British-French-Russian-Poland declaration against German aggression were put on an urgent basis today as the news was flashed to European capitals that Adolf Hitler had forced Lithuania to surrender the Memel territory.

In diplomatic quarters, the question was asked whether Hitler would stop now, even for a brief time, whether he would proceed to put Lithuania under his "protection," or even attempt to regain sovereignty of the Danzig area, under Polish dominance and lying between Germany proper and east Prussia.

Britain and France were agreed on the necessity for an immediate four power "stop Hitler" declaration, leaving the way open for adherence of five other powers if they would join with Britain, France, Russia and Poland.

Turkey, it was learned, already had pledged support. Jugoslavia, lying dangerously between Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy, held back. Negotiations were proceeding with Rumania, Bulgaria and Greece.

The British and French governments were ready at any hour to join in a declaration providing for "immediate consultation in the

ROME: 'United Front' Stand Might Lead to War, Italy Warns

BULLETIN

PARIS—(U.P.)—Premier Edouard Daladier was understood today to be actively seeking a peaceful settlement of Italian demands in the Mediterranean.

(By Associated Press)

ROME—Italy in effect warned the democratic powers today that joint action to check the Rome-Berlin alliance might incur the risk of war.

The Fascist grand council, Premier Mussolini's cabinet, issued a strong statement this morning after long discussion of the consequences of Adolf Hitler's push eastward.

Fascists interpreted the declaration as meaning the axis was prepared to fight, if necessary, to realize Italian aspirations to colonial concessions from France.

It is the general conviction among Fascists here that the furtherance of these claims is the next task to be taken up by the Rome-Berlin collaborations.

The grand council statement said:

"The Fascist grand council, in the face of the threatened formation of a 'united front of the democracies associated with bolshevism' directed against the authoritarian states—a united front which is not the harbinger of peace but of war—declares that what has happened in central Europe has its origin in the Versailles treaty and reaffirms especially in this moment its full adherence to the policy of the Rome-Berlin axis."

Fascists said that Italy supported Germany in the annexation of Austria, Czech Sudetenland, and Bohemia and Moravia and that naturally Italy expected returns of its own from the Fascist-Nazi machine.

The grand council emphasis that "especially in this moment" Italy reaffirms its devotion to the Rome-Berlin axis, was interpreted in Fascist quarters as a hint of the role the axis may play now in reinforcing an Italian campaign against France.

Families Should Aid Daughters

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Just before pay-day, the average young man runs low on his movie money and even his carfare. Smart girls realize this and try to solve the problem of empty pockets by a parlor date. If a girl's family is clever they'll clear out and leave a free field for sister.

The other day a letter came to this column which might seem funny to some, but to me it was tragic. The girl in question was "going steady" with a very shy young man. He had taken her out several times and along came the evening for the "parlor date."

Through domestic "bribery and corruption," the girl agreed to help the kids with their homework, mother with her stocking darning, and dad with the minutes of the society to which he belonged. For all this she had the promise of the living-room for a couple of hours on that particular evening.

Her small brother heard of a very ancient practical joke which he regarded as a splendid inspiration. He set the alarm clock for nine-thirty, put it on a thick china plate, and slipped it back of the sofa.

Promptly at the hour, just as the shy young man had got around to the point of asking her if she really liked to cook and could be happy in a three-room bungalow, the wild alarm rang out, and rang and rang. The girl and her boy friend had no idea where the diabolical sound was coming from. They tried to make a joke of it, but the young man hasn't come back since.

It seems to so many girls, who write to this column, that their families are positively in league against them. A nervous young man arrives, dad barely nods a greeting to him 'round the corner of the paper. Mother sits darning, looking a pathetic example of what large families and small salaries can do to a woman after forty.

If there's ever a time when mother should look her best, it's when sister's young man calls for a parlor date. The children turn on the radio, full force of course, or they ask the young man about their homework, how to do certain problems in algebra—and sometimes he doesn't know! The only thing in the whole establishment that doesn't seem against him is the family cat, snoozing peacefully.

One desperate damsel invited in her friends saying: "If you'll help to fix up the dining-room, we can use it for parties." The men painted the woodwork a gay Chinese red. And the girls sewed the draperies, cushions, curtains and chair covers. And that dingy old dining-room became a haven for that particular group of boys and girls.

Not all young people want to go out and park and pet. And the best way for a sensible family to keep them at home is to have home, or some corner of it, attractive.

Etiquette

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman.

"She's so full of 'small talk'." How often we hear people say this, with a bit of contempt in their voices. But do you feel, as I do, that there's more than a bit of envy in their voices?

I've noticed that too often the people who scorn small talk are the people who find it extremely difficult to start a conversation with strangers. Suddenly they find themselves among a group of strangers at a tea or reception or cocktail party. What to say, what to say? They have been given no hint of the other person's interests. Awkwardly they grope about for some subject that will serve to relieve the situation. Too often they say nothing, because they can't think of something "important" enough to say.

In this situation, the person who is a master of small talk is the "winner." He or she realizes that this casual meeting doesn't call for anything weighty to be said. A casual remark will start the conversational ball rolling. There's always the weather to use as a diving-board into the stream of conversation. You've just come from a good movie? Try that as a beginning of the conversation. You've just been having a fine time planting in your garden? Everyone likes to hear about a garden. As you were walking to the tea-party, you saw something interesting, perhaps a bit humorous. Share it with your companion.

A charming woman I know, quite famous for her bright conversation, confessed to me the other day the secret of her sprightly conversation. Before she goes to a party, she always thinks up a few interesting topics of conversation—light, humorous or something in the news-of-the-day. If one topic fails, she tries another. A grand idea.

Engagements may be announced by placing small bags of rice at each plate. Each bag should contain the names of the engaged couple.

Color Notes In Linens

Chartreuse and cylamen, as indicated earlier in linens as well as other fabrics, have stepped up to leading position in the sales of crease-resisting linens for daytime dresses and sportwear. A deeper tone than is currently popular is preferred in exclusive linens.

Lemon yellew is registering in both sports and dress weight linens, including sheer crepes.

Pinks are maintaining a leading selling position. Coming up as a new color for summer promotion is Killarney rose, Which is more on the salmon side with a rusty cast.

Turquoise continues to be the big seller among the greenish blues and in better linens is liked in a clearer and gayer tone than was popular last year. In the deeper blue it is the tones tinged with mauve that are outselling at the moment.

London Tan is preferred to dark brown in sports linens, although the latter is expected to step forward as an exclusive color later in classic suitings for town as well as country wear.

Black and navy are selling in a surprisingly quantity for dresses to the exclusive sportswear market. They are wanted in linens constructed to withstand crushing.

Since laces are styled in the manner of pre-war days it is the pre-war colors with which they are concerned for daytime and evening fashions for summer. They reflect the trend to softer and clearer tones. Held in high regard are the pink to rose family featuring old-rose, yellowy pink, coral and salmon—a true viole tone—old gold—yellows with mimosa a particular favorite. Molyneux's dark "navy" green is also mentioned for important promotion in daytime as well as evening laces.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

To my surprise, Olina opened the door. But it was an Olina strangely subdued and quiet, and with eyelids which showed distinct traces of tears even beneath her skilful make-up.

"Good afternoon, Mrs. Graham," she said prettily. "It is so nice to see you again, Madam!" she turned deferentially to her mother, "here is Mrs. Graham come to see you."

The queen must have given her some private signal, for she hastily added: "Will you please to excuse me, Mrs. Graham? And will you permit me?"

"Will you forgive me, Margaret," Queen Olga's low trainante voice implored, "if I do not rise? I find that my ankles are still a bit treacherous."

"I should not permit you to get up if you tried to do so," I told her, smiling. "But what a marvelous recovery you have made! I am so delighted."

No greater contrast than she presented to the haggard figure who had been rescued from the "pirate ship" could be imagined. Nor could one have recognized this striking beauty as the wraith-like patient in the hospital to which Philip Vertizen had taken her.

"I am rather delighted myself," the queen said in answer to my congratulation, and the smile which accompanied the words was, I knew, as much in answer to the homage in my eyes as to my words.

"I have made a wonderful recovery," she went on, "but I can see that your astonishment is in part caused, and justly, by this very unsuitable gown which I am wearing."

"It does not seem unsuitable to you," I told her hastily—and truthfully. "It looks as if—"

I broke off confused, and Olga, smiling, finished my sentence for me.

"—as if it were made for me," she said. "But it wasn't. You know that I came to Mr. Veritzen's yacht with only the clothes on my back."

"Yes, I know," I said, and then she smiled as mischievously as a girl might have done.

"This dress is just one of the concessions I have made to poor Philip to keep him from guessing that I have recognized him."

New Shades In Lip Rouge Shown

By MME. QUI VIVE

Dress designers, milliners, cosmeticians put their heads together, determine what the lady of the day shall look like. Dressmakers take the lead. As soon as they got away from those simple effects, form-fitting frocks without a sign of decoration, put us into hoopish skirts, fussy bodices and ruffles, the milliners marched right along bearing hats with ostrich plumes, fluttering veils, flowers galore and anything else they could dig out of the trimming box.

What then? Clothes are romantic, make a woman appear beautifully useless, so it behooves her to be rid of a golden complexion that suggests activity in the big open spaces. She must have a lovely gardenia pallor, a skin as fine as satin. No rouge to speak of. The only relic in the way of 1937 makeup that is left to this woman of 1939 is her lipstick.

When choosing the lipstick, it is necessary to consider the skin coloring, the color of the eyes, the frock that is worn.

Don't forget that rouge is compounded for the purpose of highlighting the complexion. It should not be a dominating color note. When it is, its purpose is confounded and defeated. Instead of imparting an appearance of youthful freshness, it gives an expression of fatigue and age. Many a woman has found herself looking years younger and considerably neater facially since she chucked the old rouge pad, went natural, creating her facial scenery with powder, lipstick and eye shadows.

With the new plum, purple and violet shades, the raspberry lipstick is a honey. There are dozens of varying shades of the blue-red combination. With the black robe one can revert to cherry, geranium, any one of the more vivid or distinctly red tints.

Green is fashionable again in its many variations and the best bet then for mouth-smear are the new red-dust shades. They come also for the finger nails. There are lovely gold-reds for the yellow frock or the grey one.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, March 23.

Highly-stimulated energies and faculties are at the base of much initiative and enterprise on this day, according to the lunar aspects. Putting over important projects through the co-operation of employers influential persons or those in authority will spur the creative urges to high pitch, but danger might lie in letting high pressure run away with truly constructive work.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a very lively and progressive year, with new propects receiving splendid stimulus, especially from those in authority or others ready to capitalize on sound propositions. Deference to these, calm judgment and acumen should be profitable and gratifying.

A child born on this day may have much energy and initiative, with fine creative ability as well as audacity and courage to put over its product. It should find support in high places.

New Ways With Old Favorites

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

If the butcher's bills and the budget don't see eye to eye, perhaps you are thinking too much in terms of the expensive cuts as a synonym for satisfying meals. Actually, if you know the art of flavorsome cookery, you can transform a pot roast, for instance, or a piece of boiled tongue into a culinary delight. And you don't need costly condiments and out-of-season delicacies to dress up cheaper cuts either.

Inspired by the favorite continental practice of using wines to enhance flavors and add a savor all its own, the newest culinary idea is to achieve that luscious wine-like flavor in meat cookery with none other than that good old favorite, grape juice. One of our friends who likes to experiment with foods thought up this one, and she has given us a series of splendid dishes, all of which we have tested and enjoyed.

Pot Roast Recipe.

Pot Roast of Beef Paysan calls for a three-pound round of beef, two teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one-half cup drippings or shortening, one teaspoon sugar, one cup each finely-cut celery and shredded carrot, one-half cup shredded onion, tablespoon flour, small bay leaf, one-half teaspoon thyme, one-quarter teaspoon nutmeg, one-fourth cup soft bread crumbs and grape juice. Season meat wth the salt and pepper and fry in drippings until light brown. Add sugar, vegetables and the flour and saute until yellowed. Half cover with grape juice which has been heated. Add bread crumbs and spices. Cover closely and simmer from two to three hours, or until meat almost falls to pieces. Skim off any fat. If grape juice cooks down too much, add more. If gravy gets too thin, add small amount of extra flour. Serve with dumplings or mashed potatoes.

Veal Cutlets Chausseur take six medium-sized veal cutlets (one and one-half pounds), one egg, bread crumbs, one cup tomatoes, drained, also two cups grape juice, one-half cup chopped onions, four tablespoons butter, two tablespoons chopped green pepper, teaspoon salt and one-fourth teasoon pepper. Dip cutlets in slightly-beaten egg, then in bread crumbs, and saute in hot drippings in heavy frying pan until browned on both sides. Place on rack in Dutch oven or frying pan and pour over remaining ingredients. Cover tightly and cook over slow fire for an hour. Serve hot with sauce surrounding.

Boiled Beef Tongue.

Boiled Beef Tongue with Sauce Gourmet requires for one beef tongue, four pepper corns, four whole cloves, two cup grape juice and water. Scrub tongue thoroughly, add seasonings and cover with grape juice and water. Boil hard for ten minutes, then simmer for two hours or until fork will penetrate tongue easily. Allow tongue to remain in water until cool enough to handle. Peel off outer skin and trim off root ends. Pour sauce over. Sauce requires two tablespoons each butter and flour, one and one-half cups grape juice and one-third cup seedless raisins. Melt the butter, add flour and blend. Add grape juice slowly, mixing well. Bring to a boil and add the raisins. Cook ten to fifteen minutes or until slightly thick and smooth. Pour over tongue.

Pork Chops Casserole require four thick pork chops, two or three apples, four medium-sweet potatoes, salt and pepper and one-half cup grape juice. Wipe chops and place in bottom of deep covered casserole. Peel and quarter apples and arrange over chops. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Pare and slice potatoes one-half inch thick. Arrange over apples. Season. Pour grape juice over all. Cover and bake in 400 degrees F. oven until chops are tender—about an hour. Uncover and bake until top is browned. Serve from baking dish.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

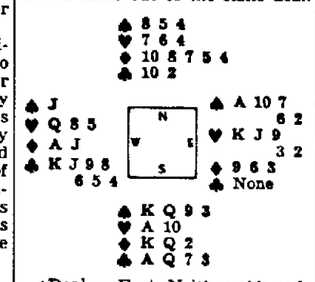
"The Authority on Authorities"

CAN CARDS LAUGH?

AT TIMES the cards produce such funny results that it seems they must have a sense of humor and are laughing at the players. Some deals develop a crazy assortment of results that are hard to believe until you get the explanation of just what was led and played. Even then, it is rather hard to realize that all of the different scores came out of the same deal.



(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable).

Here is one of the craziest deals of the season, played in a duplicate game. Six different results came from six tables.

Imagine South bidding 2-No trump, North 3-Diamonds, East 3-Spades, South 3-No trump and West doubling. West led the spade J, which the Q won. The diamond A won the K, and the club 8 was led to the 10. A spade from the dummy brought the A, then the heart 3 to the A, whereupon declarer ran home, getting three tricks in spades, one in hearts, four in diamonds and two in clubs for 4-No trump.

In another instance South bid 1-No trump, East 2-Spades, South 2-No trump, East 3-Hearts and South 3-No trump, West doubling. A heart lead set this two.

Then there was South 1-Club, West double, East 1-Heart, South 1-Spade. West 2-Clubs, East 2-Hearts, West 3-Hearts and East 4-Hearts, set three.

In one case North played it at 3-Diamonds, after a takeout double by his partner, and made it. In one West played at 3-Clubs, down one, but the prize probably belongs to the bizarre West who got into 3-No trump and was defeated three tricks. Some hand!

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable).

Can you imagine more or less normal play producing 7-No trump for South on this deal? It actually happened. Can you figure out how?

Trend and tip spun rayons: There's a swing to smooth finishes, playing down nubby textures. On the up and up are sheer smooth weaves that resemble linens.

Be most careful to see that your gas burners are all turned off. A little leak will cause a headache and gas may be accidentally turned on very easily, sometimes by the pocket of an apron or house dress catching in the burner handle

Attire For Sports Featured

The long sleeve shirt is being introduced in the summer collection of sports dresses and play clothes. It is full cut, especially across the back below the yoke and it looks particularly attractive when in printed lawn with shorts in cotton sheeting. The lawn is printed with fish and undersea designs in such colors as lavender, yellow, gold and green, and the shorts are in the lavender to match. A blue combination is also outstanding.

Lustercale, the highly mercerized broadcloth, is again spotlighted for dresses and three-piece play suits, the most important new version of the latter having instead of the buttoned front skirt a flared wraparound one with tie ends at front. Stress is also laid on shorts, skirt and shirt all with shirred fulness at front, this model in the plain cotton or striped chambray. For softer type of dress, the monastic frock with wide belt having pendant pockets is introduced in rough weave cotton and rayon.

One of the most outstanding of the individual costumes is a sailing one which couples shirts and slacks in yellow with lavender girdle and lavender three-quarter coat, the latter with hood that buttons on with the brass button that also march down the front.

Small seeds may be sown on a brick and will soon germinate. Place a common brick in a pan containing an inch or so of water. Spread the top with a two-inch layer of sifted soil and plant the seeds. Just the right amount of moisture will be absorbed from the damp brick.

RESERVISTS IN ITALY GET CALL FROM IL DUCE

Blue Lights Installed on All Main Streets in Preparation for 'Black Outs.'

(By United Press)

ROME—Premier Benito Mussolini is speeding up his preparedness campaign by calling more army reservists and technicians to the colors, it was said today in an authoritative quarter.

As the statement was made, the Fascist grand council, supreme body of the Fascist hierarchy, announced complete adherence to the Berlin-Rome axis and denounced efforts to form a "stop Hitler" bloc of nations.

Usually reliable informants said that those reservists of the army classes of 1901, 1902, 1903 and possibly 1904 who had been exempted from previous calls made in the last few months had now been summoned to military headquarters and in nearly all cases ordered to report to their barracks by tomorrow midnight.

Granted Exemptions.

Exemptions from army calls had been made previously when reservists had families to support, or when they had steady jobs.

Authoritative circles said that the new call was merely part of the campaign, already announced, to insure that Italy is prepared for any defense emergency.

Blue lights were being installed along thoroughfares in all large cities, including Rome, in preparations for large scale "black out" drills during which cities would be darkened as part of air alarm tests.

The grand council meeting adjourned early today and issued the following "order of the day":

"The Fascist grand council, before the threatened creation of 'a united front of democracies allied with bolshevism' against the authoritarian states—which united front is a forerunner of war and not of peace—declares that what has occurred in central Europe finds its first origins in the Versailles treaty and reaffirms, especially at this moment, its complete adherence to the policy of the Rome-Berlin axis."

The statement reaffirming support of the "axis" was held by Fascists to be a tacit repudiation of reports that a rift had risen between Mussolini and Adolf Hitler

TAXES POUR IN

County Collection Expected to Pass $300,000 Mark Today.

With real estate tax receipts only $5,500 under the $300,000-mark this morning, collections today were expected to put the total well above that figure.

Receipts yesterday amounted to $9,973 and boosted the total to $294,467. Personal tax collections were still slow, amounting to only $21,601.

SOLDIER KILLED

Dies When Auto Plunges From Highway Near Columbus.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Corp. Raymond Saunders, 28, of Enterprise, W. Va., a soldier stationed at Fort Hayes barracks, was killed early today when a coupe occupied by four persons plunged from a highway just north of the city.

Sgt. Samuel Buck, driver of the car, said he was blinded by lights of another machine. He and two women passengers were injured slightly.

PAROLES NEAR FOR 2 SLAYERS

Sharon Township Twins Due to Be Freed 15 Years After Slaying Near Shelby.

and parole, Judge Jewell said.

The brothers, now 45 years old, were central figures in one of Richland county's most sensational murder cases.

Wilbur, who pleaded guilty to a second degree murder charge, was sentenced to life imprisonment on April 21, 1925, more than a year after the murder was committed. He fled immediately after Payne was shot and was captured 15 months later in Wichita, Kans.

His twin, Willard, was sentenced March 14, 1924, to a term of 19 to 21 years in the pen after he was convicted on a manslaughter indictment.

Three Days In Solitary.

Because Payne was murdered the day after Christmas and in the presence of Wilbur Pettit's eight-year-old daughter, Judge James W. Galbraith, then on the common pleas bench, sentenced both brothers to spend Dec. 24, 25 and 26 of each year of their terms in solitary confinement.

Payne was fatally shot following an argument over Wilbur Pettit's daughter, Bertha, 8, who had been living at the Payne home northeast of Shelby. She witnessed the shooting and told authorities that the three men quarreled when Wilbur Pettit sought to have her return home with him.

Wilbur admitted shooting Payne after his brother, Willard, had knocked him down. Sentiment against the twins ran high following the shooting and defense counsel sought to have the cases heard outside Richland county.

Atty. George H Blecker was county prosecutor when the cases were heard and Fred D. Sells was sheriff.

DELAYS HEARING ON ROAD FUNDS

House Committee to Hear Engineer's Protest Next Week.

County Engineer Howard C. Sword went to Columbus last night prepared to oppose a measure to divert motor vehicle license fees from the road fund, but continuance of the hearing forced him to withhold his argument until next Tuesday morning.

Sword joined other road officials at a house taxation committee hearing on the proposed bill, but time permitted hearing only the arguments for the measure, he said. He will return to Columbus Tuesday when the hearing will be continued.

The bill, if enacted into law, will seriously handicap the county road department by diverting a large part of its revenue to the state general fund, Sword contends.

LESS CONTAGION

Rehder Reports 100 Per Cent Decrease in February.

Communicable disease in Mansfield showed a 100 per cent decrease during February, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, reported to the board of health last night.

The report showed that there were 119 cases of contagious discases listed during the month as compared with 223 for January. The largest decrease was shown in chickenpox with 40 cases reported as compared with 149 for the previous month.

There were 43 cases of mumps, 16 of scarlet fever, eight of whooping cough, six of pneumonia, three of measles and one each of tuberculosis, syphilis and erysipelas.

During February 46 deaths were recorded to bring the total to 113 so far this year, while there were 49 births, 17 more than was reported the previous month.

BOARD TO STUDY SCHOOL FUNDS

1939 Appropriation, Bids on Bell Up for Debate Thursday.

The Mansfield board of education is scheduled to act on its 1939 appropriation and open bids on the sale of the old bell removed from the tower at the John Simpson building at a special session at noon Thursday.

The schools have been operated under a temporary appropriation since the first of the year, because the board lacked sufficient information on the amount of funds available to set up its financial request for the entire year.

Bids on the huge brass bell taken from the tower of the old John Simpson junior high school were requested recently by the board. The bell weighs about 3,000 pounds.

propriation of $2,500 from a special PWA sewer fund, $550 of which was earmarked for the city engineering department to complete the preliminary work.

It repealed an ordinance passed two weeks ago authorizing the service director to hire a consulting engineer to do the job.

Last night's action came as the result of the stand taken by the State Department of Health which demanded that the city hire only a recognized consulting firm to conduct the survey after it had previously informed officials that a report submitted by any "competent" engineer would be acceptable.

Council's action follows years of agitation for the survey that has been repeatedly requested by the State Department of Health. Twice within the past year the state turned down proposed extensions in the sewer system because the lack of a comprehensive report.

Funds recently were made available from a balance left in a fund used for the construction of the sewage disposal plant three years ago when City Solicitor Marion D. Ward ruled that the money could be used for engineering services.

PUPILS, FACULTY SPONSOR SHOW

Minstrels Tomorrow to Help Finance Renovation of School Auditorium.

Students and faculty members of Senior high school will do their part to help finance the renovation of the high school auditorium when they sponsor the "Caroline Minstrels" at 8 p. m. Thursday in the auditorium.

The show will be staged by members of the Westinghouse Glee club under the direction of Lawrence Chamberlain and Maurice Stretch and will be entirely new. It will be presented in two parts, the first half of which will be an old-fashioned minstrel and the last half a vaudeville show.

Among the performers will be Earl Adams, Jean Schill and Chamberlain and Stretch, a back-and-white quartet, and Glenn Schroff, and the "Dionne Quintuplets."

Proceeds will be used to purchase new drapes and roller blinds for the auditorium to replace the red curtains which have been used since the building was opened. Other repairs are also being made to the auditorium.

FUGITIVE BACK

Trusty Who Fled From Honor Camp Returned to O. S. R.

An Ohio State reformatory trusty who escaped from the Grafton honor camp two months ago was back at the institution today following his return from Lorain by reformatory guards.

The fugitive is Chester Sigler, 22, of Huron county who is under two concurrent sentences of from five to 30 years each on a burglary charge. He was sentenced on Dec. 23, 1936 and escaped January 15 of this year.

Meanwhile International News Service dispatches from Columbus said that authorities there were holding Phillip Pinetello, 22, in jail pending his return to the reformatory from which he escaped.

Supt Arthur L. Glattke said reformatory records show that Pinetello escaped from the Sandusky honor camp on Oct 9, 1938. He was sentenced from Franklin county on Aug. 8, 1936 for a term of from one to 20 years on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

THEATERS

SOME Hollywood couples do live together like normal folks, but it's news when they do, which is why the Frank Morgan's silver anniversary party at Palm Springs is a news story. Mrs. Morgan was Alma Muller, wealthy New York girl when she eloped with the actor. Her family stormed, Frank got mad and left with a road show. Two weeks later his bride joined him at Richmond, Va., and they haven't been separated since. The Morgan brothers, Frank and Ralph, incidentally, are not poverty stricken. The family owns the rights to Angostura Bitters.

Country Doctor's Life.

The double bill at the Madison for the last half of the week brings the much discussed "A Man to Remember," and Bobby Breen's new film, "Fisherman's Wharf." The first picture has a cast that is not particularly well known outside of Anne Shirley. The title role is taken by Edward Ellis, veteran character actor, as the small town physician. Lee Bowman plays his son. Henry Armetta and Leo Carrillo support young Breen.

Post-War Drama.

Tomorrow will be the last showing at the Majestic of the tremendously impressive "Three Comrades," in which Robert Taylor, Franchot Tone, Robert Young and Margaret Sullavan depict the characters of Eric Remarque's post-war drama. A poignantly tragic love story is woven into the fortunes of the three men. A young attorney who was too bright to be tripped up by the law but tripped by a pretty girl is the theme of "The Chaser."

SIMPSON P. T. A. PICKS LEADERS

Mrs. Rudolph Named President of Junior High Group Again; Plan Benefit Party.

Plans for a benefit party were completed, and officers for the 1939-40 school year were elected at a meeting of the John Simpson Junior high school Parent-Teacher association last night in the school gymnasium.

Mrs. Don Rudolph was re-elected president of the association, and new officers chosen are L. J. Meeker, vice president; Miss Kathrine Culp, secretary, and Mrs. Richard Fensch, treasurer.

The association will sponsor a benefit party March 31 in the gymnasium annex, with A. F. Davis as general chairman in charge of arrangements for the event.

Committees named for the event are, Irvin Brune, chairman, C. A. McClure, Robert DeHaven, Earl Troll; tables, Mrs. Arthur Wood, chairman, Mrs. Grace Pocock, Mrs. Walter Durant, Mrs. H. O. Dysart and Mrs. Earl Troll; printing, H. J. Dotson; candy, H. D. Smith, chairman, Mrs. Anna Butts, Mrs. C. Ladd, Mrs. Lloyd Paste, Mrs. C. E. Flockenzier, Miss Fae Sotherland, Miss Katherine Culp, Miss Hester Robinson, and Miss Wilma Snider; prizes, R. N. Campbell, chairman, Lloyd Paste and W. W. Blauser.

Jesse Beer, principal of Senior high school, was guest speaker. He spoke on the subject, "Today's Youth In School." A program of musical numbers was presented by three high school students, Dale Bechtel, violinist, Richard Sparks, pianist, and James Hart, vocalist.

A report of the recent district P. T. A. convention at Ashland was given by Mrs. Rudolph. W. W. Blauser was program chairman for the meeting.

FEW ASK LOANS

Only 12 County Farmers Get U. S. Funds on Corn Crop.

Richland county farmers may apply for federal loans on their 1938 corn crop until March 31, G. L. Taylor, chairman of the county soils conservation committee, said today.

Showing little interest in the loan plan, only 12 county farmers have applied for loans totaling approximately $2,000, Taylor said. Ohio farmers have sealed over 736,000 bushels of corn for a total loan of $419,508.

Applications must be filed with the county conservation office and samples of corn must be submitted to the state office by March 30. Crib specifications must be met and the corn must be of a quality that will permit storage, it was pointed out.

Loans on the 1938 corn crop are being made on the basis of 57 cents per bushel in the commercial corn area and 43 cents in the non-commercial area.

Urges Dies Committee Quiz of Ohio 'Red' Activities

SENATE GROUP SUPPORTS U. S. INQUIRY PLAN

Sidetracks Assembly Quiz to Open Way for Investigation by Federal Body.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—The senate rules commitee has decided to recommend that the senate ask the Dies congressional committee to investigate alleged un-American activities in Ohio rather than to authorize a senate investigation.

The rules committee met with representatives of the Ohio Council of Civic, Patriotic and Fraternal Organizations which had asked creation of a "little Dies" committee in the state and decided aaginst undertaking such an inquiry on its own initiative.

The committee in a session from which newspapermen were barred voted that a resolution would be offered, probably by Sen. Robert Pollock, R., Stark, requesting the Dies committee to come into Ohio.

Wait Dies Decision.

Senator Pollock is the author of a resolution for an investigation into alleged subversive activities in state supported universities and schools. The committee agreed that the original Pollock resolution should be held for possible further action in the event the Dies committee declined to enter the state.

It was recalled that two members of the Dies committee conducted investigations in the state some months ago, but that no announcement of their findings was made.

Sen. Frank Whittemore, R., Summit, senate majority leader and chairman of the rules committee, took the lead in urging that an effort be made to have the Dies committee conduct the investigation.

He said it would be too costly to have a state legislative inquiry although he suggested "there was evidently a need for some kind of investigation."

Col. William Mumm, Columbus, told the committee that groups urging the action were not attacking Ohio State university or other state universities in their demands for an airing of charges that subversive elements operated within the schools, but that they were aiming at the "termites" in the institution.

1,600 Join Move to Keep Bob-White on Protected List

Petitions are being circulated in Mansfield this week seeking signers to protest against a measure now before the Ohio legislature which would take the bob-white off the song bird lists and have open season on them.

About 1,600 names have been obtained, according to Mrs. H. M. Spandau, Shepard road, who said that a goal of 2,500 names had been set for Mansfield and vicinity.

The fight against taking quail off the list of protected song birds is being headed by the League of Ohio Nature Clubs. It has been found through questionnaires, league officials said, that farmers of Ohio as a whole are opposed to the legislation and many have signified their intention of entirely closing their properties to hunters if the bills are passed.

The bob-white has been on the protected list for 26 years and has had to fight for an existence in the past two decades as farmers are coming more and more to clear their fence rows and underbrush, which provides shelter and propagating grounds for the birds, the league pointed out.

Mrs. Spandau said today that the League of Nature clubs is urging people all over the state, who are interested in conservation of wild life to write protests to Representative Jack Eastman, chairman of the Committee on Conservation at Columbus, urging for the defeat of the bill.

RICHLAND NATIVE DIES IN GALION

Mrs. M. L. Hackedorn, 94, Had Been Ill For Two Years.

GALION—Mrs. M. L. Hackedorn, 94, a native of Richland county, died early today at her home here following an illness of more than two years. She had been bedfast for a week.

Born Oct. 26, 1844 in Richland county, Mrs. Hackedorn had lived in Galion for a number of years. She was a member of the First Methodist church and a charter member of the Order of Eastern Stars.

Surviving is a daughter, Mrs. Georgia White at home. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the Snyder funeral home with Rev. W. N. Robertson, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

Renew Fight on Curb of Roosevelt Powers

Up and Down THE STREET

A clerk at the Mansfield-Leland sprung a little joke which backfired and today the joke was on him. Several days ago a man named Jim Thorpe registered there, and the clerk told an elevator operator that "Jim Thorpe, the great Indian athlete" was at the hotel. The word spread and people began to drift in hoping to get a squint at the famous Indian. In explaining that it was only a joke, the clerk laughed and said: "I didn't suppose he would take it seriously. I thought everybody knew that Jim Thorpe is dead." But Jim is very much alive and "everybody" but the clerk knew it.

Life's like that: A woman who had testified that her husband was cruel to her and refused to support her sobbed her protest yesterday when Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston ordered the husband to pay her $5 a week alimony and $50 attorney fees following a divorce hearing. "Usually they wail when I don't give them alimony; you just can't figure them out," Judge Huston said. He continued the case to do some more thinking about it.

Richland county is the home of more nationally-known authors than Mansfield's Louis Bromfield and Whiting Williams, formerly of Shelby, famous travel writer. A widely read magazine dealing with authors and their writings presents an interesting story on Edward Edson Lee, a popular juvenile author. Lee's works feature the youthful hero, Jerry Todd, and his stories have been published in book form as well as in leading magazines. He formerly resided in Shelby where he was employed as advertising manager of the Autocall company for many years.

An air of mystery surrounds the hike planned for members of Boy Scout troop No. 5 of Hedges school this week-end. The mystery angle is that the scouts won't know where they are going until they arrive at their destination. All members of the troop know is that they will be taken to the Black Fork, north of Mansfield by automobiles, and from there on they will have to walk. The group will leave Friday afternoon and return Sunday.

WITH GLEE CLUB

Ex-Mansfielder Sings Here Tonight at Church.

A former Mansfielder, John Knox Hess, will appear with the 34-voice Men's Glee club of Wooster college when that group opens its annual tour with a concert at 7:30 p. m. today at the First Presbyterian church.

Hess, a sophomore at the college, is the son of Rev. C. B. Hess, former pastor of the Central Methodist church here. Besides singing, Hess plays the violin and is a member of the college symphony orchestra.

The concert here is sponsored by the Men's club of the Presbyterian church and is the first on the annual tour of the club. Prof. William C. Deveny is director of the glee club.

The present tour will continue through April 1. Concerts will also be given at Lima, Chicago, Niles, Mich., and Toledo.

HUSBAND SAVES WIFE, 3 CHILDREN

Arrives Home From Work to Find Fumes in House.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—A Columbus mother and her three children were alive today because the father arrived home from work in time to save them from gas fumes in their home.

The father, Walter Knight, found his family in a semi-conscious condition after they had been subjected to the fumes for approximately 10 hours. Firemen used oxygen to revive Mrs. Knight and the children, Phyllis, 2; Walter, 6, and Emma, 1.

Fumes came from a lighted burner under a tub of water in the kitchen adjoining the bedroom.

SCOUR HILLS IN MURDER SEARCH

Southern Ohio Posses Seek 4 Suspects in Moonshine Still Slaying.

(By Associated Press)

PORTSMOUTH — Officers searched wooded hills today near the upper Twin Creek region, scene of legendary feuds, for four men who, Sheriff Earl Brandel reported, fatally beat John Welch, 22, after he and three companions located a moonshine still about 18 miles from here.

Alva Riley, 39, and James Evans, 18, held as material witnesses, gave the following account of the slaying, Brandel said:

Accompanied by Herbert Lewis, 20, the three drove an automobile as far as they could yesterday over a woods road towards the still which Welch, a Works Progress administration laborer, had learned about while working in that region.

Leaving the others in the car, Welch and Lewis went on afoot but ran back a short time later carrying a gallon jug and pursued by four men.

The pursuers overtook Welch and beat him with rocks and a wrench but Lewis escaped into the woods. Evans was bruised by a rock as he and Riley fled in the machine.

A skull fracture caused Welch's death, Coroner J. D. Rose said. Four sheriff's deputies and two state highway patrolmen found no trace of the quartet last night, Brandel said.

COURT TO GIVE JOAN CRAWFORD 'CANNED' DIVORCE FROM TONE

(By United Press)

HOLLYWOOD — Joan Crawford's divorce from Franchot Tone was almost as neatly "canned" today as the film of her latest motion picture.

In an unusual procedure, her sworn testimony that the actor pouted because she was too tired to make the rounds of the Hollywood gay spots after long days before the movie cameras, will be read in court next Tuesday while she is on the high seas enroute to South America, and Tone is in New York city.

Her deposition for the almost automatic divorce was given yesterday at the office of her agent. She was questioned by her lawyer, Ellis I. Hirschfeld, who will read the testimony to the judge in her stead next week. Tone has agreed to give her the decree by default.

"I must appear at the studio at 6 a. m. when a picture is in production," the deposition said. "Often when I came home and was so tired I asked him to cancel social engagements, he would sulk and pout. Once he wouldn't speak to me for three or four days.

"I would remind him of the agreement we made when we were married, in which he promised to let me continue with my career and not let marriage interfere. Then he would sulk again."

Miss Crawford, fetching in an expensive mink coat and brown sports ensemble, walked into the agent's office and looked pensively for a moment at two pictures on the wall—of herself and Tone—before she started testifying. A one-time chorus girl she had married the young actor, heir to an abrasives fortune, Oct. 11, 1935, in Fort Lee, N. J. She previously had been married to Douglas Fairbanks, jr.

ADDRESSES 600

Canadian Hunter, Marksman Talks to Fish, Game Group.

More than 600 Richland county fish and game enthusiasts saw pictures of Canadian big game hunting and witnessed a demonstration of shooting accuracy at Grotto hall last night. The occasion was the regular meeting of the Richland County Fish and Game association.

Speaker of the evening was Claude Parmelee of the Winchester company, veteran of many Canadian hunting expeditions and crack rifleman. He showed pictures of hunting trips and concluded the evening with a demonstration of shooting skill.

Parmelee was introduced by John C. Friday, president of the association. John Catlett, secretary spoke briefly. Harry Rist was chairman of the committee in charge of arranging last night's program.

The next meeting of the association will be April 4 at North Lake park pavilion. A covered-dish dinner will be served.

NEW DEAL GETS JOLT IN SENATE ON REVAMP BILL

Amendment Curbing Roosevelt Authority Passes; Leaders Press Fresh Drive.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Administration senators made a desperate attempt today to reverse the 46-43 vote by which the senate sharply limited the president's powers under the house-approved government reorganization bill.

Vice President Garner, it was learned, promised them his vote if it should be needed to break a tie.

During an exciting session late yesterday, Garner's refusal to break a tie vote on a technical motion won the reprieve for the administration forces after a series of quick parliamentary maneuvers.

Fight One of Hottest.

The fight, one of the hottest in congress since the house shelved a reorganization bill last spring, centered on an amendment by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont)) who led the successful fight on the president's court bill in 1937.

Under his amendment, the president could issue executive orders reorganizing, consolidating or abolishing most government agencies, but the orders would not become effective until approved by both houses of congress. The orders could not be debated more than 10 days in each chamber.

As passed by the house, the reorganization bill would put presidential reorganization orders into effect automatically unless both chambers voted disapproval within 60 days.

Thus, under Wheeler's proposal, one house could block presidential orders. His amendment was supported yesterday by the coalition of Republicans and anti-administration Democrats which had proved effective on previous occasions.

Voting for the amendment were 23 Democrats, 21 Republicans and two Farmer-Laborites. Opposed were 41 Democrats, one Independent and one Progressive.

The tally did not accurately represent senate strength, however, because Senator Byrnes (D-SC), floor manager for the bill, changed his vote in order to move reconsideration of the Wheeler amendment. (A senator has to be on the winning side to ask for reconsideration.)

The senate quickly adjourned to give both sides opportunity for overnight conferences. Whatever the final outcome of the Wheeler amendment, however, there appeared little doubt that the bill would pass.

DIES IN BUCYRUS

F. E. Tapling, Retired Cabinet Maker, Stricken at Age 80.

BUCYRUS — Francis Emerson Tapling, 80, a native of England, died this morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. W. Miller, 860 South Sandusky street, following an illness of three days.

Born Nov. 10, 1858 in England, Mr. Tapling came to the United States in 1880. He lived in Mt. Gilead until 1894 when he moved to Bucyrus where he has made his home since. A retired cabinet maker, he was the last of a family of seven. He was a member of the First Baptist church.

Surviving are four children, Mrs. Nell Smith of Youngstown, Mrs. Charles Dehart of Laramie, Wyo., Ralph Tapling of Albany, N. Y., and Mrs. Miller with whom he made his home, six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Henderson and Lutz funeral home with Rev. Robert Hughes of Kenton officiating. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Pegler Answers Critic With Quotes of Catholic History On Persecution

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Perhaps in the Hitleresque method of Father Coughlin himself I have encountered on the home controversial front nothing quite as raw and ignoble as the excuse offered by one who signs himself as Miall Oran Meagher for falsely attributing to these dispatches matter which did not appear in them, so that he could resent imaginary affronts to Americans of Irish blood.

Mr. Meagher faked the offenses, and, when his lies were nailed, explained that an inexperienced typist erroneously placed quotation marks around certain phrases, indicating that they were direct quotations from these dispatches.

The story in question proposed that it was particularly unbecoming of Father Coughlin to incite bigotry, not only because he is an American and a priest but also because Irish immigrants to this country in the last century—from whom he sprang—were hated and persecuted for their religion and blood.

Mr. Meagher takes the attitude that they were not and tries to create the impression that citation of historical truths known to every American born of Irish-Catholic immigrants of the last century denotes approval of that hatred and persecution. It indicates nothing of the kind, and his insinuation that it does is as insincere as his fakery was false.

As to whether they were hated and persecuted, let us look at the record. He says by way of disproof that President Grant sent a destroyer to greet returning Fenians, just liberated from English jails in 1871, and quotes from a tribute of welcome by Jonathan P. Doliver, a native American orator.

I distrust quotes offered by Mr. Meagher, but will concede that Doliver spoke as he is said to have spoken. But as proof that he did not express the prevailing sentiment of native Americans, I quote from a Catholic historical book, "Has the Emigrant Kept the Faith?" by Gerald O'Shaughnessy, former professor of theology, Marist college, Washington, D. C., and Notre Dame Seminary, New Orleans, published in 1925.

"While this Catholic immigration was entering the country," Mr. O'Shaughnessy writes, "it was greeted by growing hostility to foreigners and Irish Catholics, which crystallized in the infamous know-nothing slogan, 'America for American Protestants.' Its effect was manifest throughout the country in bigoted persecution of Catholic pupils, in 'nunnery inspection' laws and in mob violence, in which churches were burned and Catholics assaulted and murdered. In some states, hampering property laws were enacted."

This Catholic historian recalls riots, often with destruction of churches. He says that election day, 1855, in Louisville was known as Bloody Monday because of know-nothing violence.

I said they did not readily take to farming, but congregated in eastern cities. Meagher cites a figure, without basis of comparison, showing that many Irish farmers settled in California, but O'Shaughnessy says: "The vast majority of our immigrants from whom has been drawn the greatest portion of our Catholic increase during the 19th century have shown a general and continued disposition to settle in large centers." It is not aspersion to say that the Irish immigrants preferred urban to rural life. The United States was then and—small thanks to Father Coughlin—still is a free country.

"Catholicity in Philadelphia," a Catholic reference book, describes the terrible riots, church burnings and desecrations in the Kensington district of Philadelphia in May, 1844, in which 40 were killed and 60 seriously wounded, and shows that the Irish Catholics were attacked because hatred had been fomented by false or cunningly distorted attributions like those which Father Coughlin and others now circulate against the Jews.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It was only yesterday afternoon—it seems like years—and I remember that the clock said 2:30.

I looked furtively around on entering the drugstore, but it was evident that none of the coke-sippers and tea-drinkers recognized us. I whispered, "All's well" to the lovely blond at my side, and we slipped quietly into a booth, ordered java just as casually as you please, and life went on around us. . . .

Life went on because none there—not even Leon G. Turrou at the studio across the street—realized that I had in temporary custody the most beautiful of the makebelieve Nazi spies.

Our meeting thus was not prearranged. I mean it was done in code, because we espionage agents have to be cautious. I spotted Miss Lya Lys (pronounce it Leese and amaze your friends) in a hallway of the studio and I said, looking at the ceiling so nobody would think I was addressing her, "Les-go-de-drugstore, guzzlajava—and you tell all, see." She tossed her blond hair, which is code for "Oke," and we slipped away. . . .

Strangely, although this famous operative was in Hollywood some years ago, our paths had never crossed before. This is regrettable, for Lya Lys is an interesting girl. (They're glamorizing her but she still likes to take auto motors to pieces, put them together again.)

"I was here before, yes," she said, "but I could not speak English, and I was doing foreign versions. . . . I was at Metro doing them at the same time with Charles Boyer . . . Then I learned English and after a while I went to the stage and abroad to make pictures. . . . I am an American citizen. . . . I had a frightful time in Europe during the big war scare. . . . I was to make another picture in London, but nobody was thinking about pictures much then. . . ."

And contracts were easily abrogated, so that she could return home to America — but the only way she could return was through Germany to Scandinavia. At Hamburg she was "detained" five days, was permitted to leave only when friends interceded. She was born in Berlin (of Russian parents, however) but . . .

"I want never to go back to Germany — and especially not after this picture!" she added, laughingly."

"This picture is "Confessions of a Nazi Spy." From the sets thereof come strange tales of nervous actors, of actors playing under assumed names, of suspected sabotage, of guarded secrecy. (But the set is closed to all, so the set-up is perfect for all sorts of stories.)

Miss Lys, however, did not appear harassed. On the contrary (maybe it's the Nazi spy in her) she seemed quite gay and very pleased with life and her contract. ("I was signed in New York and I didn't know what picture I would play in until I arrived—but I am glad to play in it.")

At this point both of us felt that we were observed. There was a waitress, in particular, who kept looking. A G-woman, perhaps? How could we know? Quickly, because the time was getting short, I pursued the theme. Coffee. . . .

She told me, in brazen frankness, that she loves coffee—all except Parisian coffee. She adores French food, but the coffee—ah! At last she had no other recourse but to bring her own to the Parisian restaurants. She was afraid they didn't like it, either, but then she was always speaking her mind like that. . . .

Paris must forgive her for this, too, and remember that she is an American citizen. She doesn't see why Paris clothes should be better than ours—she's buying hers at home. Her hats, too, if she should buy a hat, which she probably won't. (She hates wearing them.)

We both glanced at the clock. She sighed, "I have a fitting XG-12. Adieu!"

"Bon voyage, Z-24," I saluted. "I too must see a guy in Hollywood."

And that was all. No one suspected anything. It was a triumph!

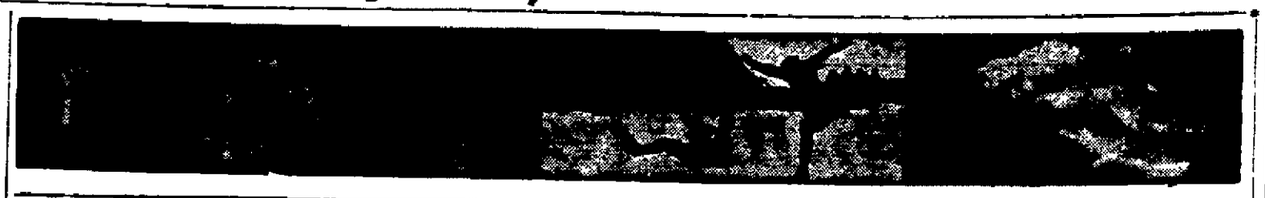
Pytlak Returns to Tribe Tepee, Averill Ends Holdout

McKechnie's Crew Looks Potent to Kelly, Frisch



Hudlin, Broaca Missing

Reds' Pitching Staff Rated Highly by Bee Coach as Ohioans Win, 4 to 3.

TAMPA, Fla.—(U.P.)—The Cincinnati Reds met the Boston Red Sox today under a full head of steam after nosing out the Boston Bees, National league brethren, 4 to 3, yesterday.

Lloyd (Whitey) Moore the pride of Coshocton county, Ohio, was Manager Bill McKechnie's choice to face the Red Sox. Moore to date has allowed only five hits in 12 innings of grapefruit league pitching and may nudge into a starting hurling spot before the season opens.

Show Up Powerful.

Despite the narrow margin of victory over the Bees, the Reds again looked like champions and drew nice words from two diamond veterans from their showing.

George Kelley, long-time National league first baseman and now coach of the Bees, picked the McKechnie crew to cop the pennant.

"McKechnie has the best pitching staff in either league along with power, speed and reserves. Ernie Lombardi and Frank McCormick may finish one-two for the league batting championship."

Frankie Frisch, one-time teammate with Kelly on the New York Giants and now the latest exmanager of the St. Louis Cardinals, watched the contest and voiced words of praise for young Harry Craft, Red outfielder.

"If he doesn't develop into one of the greatest outfielders of all time, I don't know a good ball player when I see one," Frisch asserted. "He's fast, has a good arm and possesses plenty of extra base power in his war club."

Gives Rookies Chance.

Lombardi and Bill Werber, new third baseman, did not play against the Bees and McKechnie tried out three rookies and Gene Schott on the mound which may account partially for the Bees' success in holding down the score. The pitching quartet which included recruits Pete Naktenis, Earl Cook and Wesley Livengood held Boston to two hits which mixed in with walks and an error by Bill Myers gave the Bees three runs. All the Cincinnati pitchers except Cook who was wild looked good.

Infield Problems Puzzle Blade's Cardinals; Outfield Fairly Well Set; Twirlers Added

By DILLON GRAHAM

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP)—Like the old woman in the shoe, Skipper Ray Blades of the St. Louis Cardinals has so many shortstops he doesn't know what to do.

He has five players playing tag around the shortfield. He can't decide who's going to be "it."

Graham.

That's Blades' chief worry in his first season as boss of the Cardinals. He needs a shortstop-second base combination that'll cover more ground and hit harder than last year's pair. Jarring Johnny Mize at first and Don Gutteridge at third have the infield extremes well-handled, even though Don isn't a bargain at the plate.

The chaps bumping into each other as they rove the shortfield in relay combinations are Jimmy Brown, Frank Crespi, Martin Marion, Lynn Myers and Joe Orengo.

'Good Field, No Hit.'

"Slats" Marion is a lanky fielding flash from Rochester but National league pitching probably will baffle him. Crespi is another whom the Cardinal coach, Mike Gonzales, would describe as "good field, no hit."

Orengo, who operates a cable-car up and down the diagonal slopes of his native Frisco when he isn't playing ball, is a sturdy lad of 185 pounds who takes a nice cut at the ball. His average with Sacramento wasn't so high but it included a good percentage of extra-base clouts.

Myers came to the Cards from Asheville last mid-season. He's a nifty fielder but his stick-work didn't help. Jimmy Brown played all around the infield in 1938 and he's good at second, third or short. But Jimmy doesn't like being a transient. He's elected to gamble on his chances at shortstop.

This pepper-practice picture shows most of the Cardinals' problem children. Don Gutteridge, batting, is a good third-baseman—until he strolls to the plate. Herbert Bremer, hidden by the bat, is a rookie catcher—but other mitt men got there first. Stu Martin, next (reading left-to-right), is a frail second-baseman. Maurice Sturdy, next, is to spell Martin at second, but Sturdy is fragile, too—he is inclined to have knee injuries. Frank Crespi, Joseph Orengo, and Jimmy Brown—the next three—are all would-be shortstoppers, and there is only one shortstop's job. Pepper Martin, extreme right, is a veteran and a cinch for an outfield position.

Stu Martin at second base is frail. He weighs around 160 and can hardly be depended on to last a full campaign. He looked good in his first season in 1936, but his hitting slumped off in the last two years.

Brings Second-Sacker.

Ray Blades has brought his own second-baseman from Rochester to give Stu competition. He's Jack Sturdy. And he's brittle, too. Last year he was out for quite a spell with a knee injury, which he says is okay now. He hit .299 and had 22 doubles and 10 homers. Sturdy is 6-feet-2 and weighs 180.

Blades says he's going to give the jobs to the fellows who can give the Cards the most punch.

The outfield is set with Joe Medwick, Enos Slaughter, Terry Moore, Pepper Martin and probably Lynn King. Arnold Owen and Don Padgett, the reformed outfielder, will do the catching. The pitching staff probably will include such newcomers as Tom Sunkel, whose 21-and-5 was the best average in the Southern Association; Morton Cooper and Ken Raffensberger.

Heads Drive

HERBERT R. SLOUGH

THE campaign to sell tickets for the Mansfield baseball club's opening Ohio State league game at the Fairground Wednesday, May 3, will be headed by Herbert R. Slough, widely-known Mansfield insurance man.

Slough was elected to head a citizens' committee at a meeting of Mansfield citizens interested in the return of organized baseball to the city at the Mansfield-Leland hotel last night.

Paul M. Eliot of the Farmers Savings and Trust company will serve as treasurer, with Ralph A. Hughes, municipal court clerk, will act as secretary, assisted by Robert G. Miller, acting secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The drive to sell $1 opening day tickets will be launched by the Citizens' committee at a "Fan Night," which will be open to the public, at the American Legion at 8.30 p. m Wednesday, March 29.

Midget Catcher Relents After Talking to Bradley; Signs Contract.

NEW ORLEANS — (AP) — Smoke from the pipe of peace curled out of the Cleveland Indians' wigwam today but the chieftains, still perturbed by the antics of diminutive Frankie Pytlak, puffed rather jerkily.

The spirited backstop from Buffalo had a spell of temper(ment) yesterday and, spurning for the moment his reported $12,000 salary, stormed out of the spring training ball park, bag and baggage.

"Doesn't Understand Me."

But Frankie returned hours later after a huddle with Alva Bradley, the club president. The catcher remarked simply that C. C. Slapnicka, the Tribe's vice-president and business boss, "Doesn't understand me."

"Neither do I," said Bradley.

"Make it three," Manager Oscar Vitt put in.

At Cleveland, meanwhile, Centerfielder Earl Averill abandoned his hold-out role and signed a contract to play his 11th season with the Redskins. The Earl's wage is believed to be about $13,000 compared to $12,000 and a $2,000 batting average bonus last year.

Thus Pitchers Johnny Broaca and Willis Hudlin remain Cleveland's only hold-outs.

Pytlak's puzzling didoes disclosed that he had not signed his 1939 contract After the tempest was over, however, he placed his signature on the dotted line.

The catcher took his equipment from his ball park locker and cryptically remarked, "I'm not going to stand for this!"

The management reported Pytlak's case to Baseball Commissioner K M. Landis for adjudication, but it was believed this phase ended when Frankie returned to the fold.

Vitt and Slapnicka conferred with Pytlak Monday night and Vitt said the backstop had complained because Rollie Hemsley was sharing catching duties in the grapefruit games.

'Tells Vitt, Too.

"Frankie seemed to think he ought to catch every inning of every game," said Vitt. "He didn't like the way I was running things and said so."

It was an open secret last year that Pytlak resented the choice of Hemsley as Pitcher Bob Feller's preferred receiver.

Sonny Meder Collects 714 Pins In Doubles Match, But Lodge Pair Loses to Visitors.

MOOSE No. 1 maple knockers came through with another brilliant performance on the Meder Recreation lanes last night when they pounded the shiny uprights for a 3181 total and a victory over the touted Harris Paints of Wooster.

Led by Art Hilborn's sensational 753, the lodgemen whipped up games of 1095, with which they took a 117 pin lead, 1040 and 1046, as the Woosterites batted out a 3042.

The high-scoring Hilborn collected scores of 244, 256 and 253 in his hefty series Farrell Hipp contributed a 635, Sonny Meder rolled a 623 and Johnny Leppo shot a 607. Schmidt, incidentally, a former Mansfield kegler, led the visitors with a 655.

In a doubles match, Berry, with a 710, and Whitemyer defeated Meder and Hilborn, 1360 to 1291, in a special doubles match Meder came through with a 714, shooting tilts of 235, 265 and 214

RANDOM SHOTS

Wetzel

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

BASKETBALL is "old business" at Mansfield high school. Stinging memory of the Tygers failure in the state cage classic in Columbus is being erased gradually as Coaches Russ Murphy and Harry Mehock round up their forces for spring activities. Murphy is already concentrating on preparations for the next gridiron season, while Mehock is busy conditioning his thin-clads for their track inaugural with Springfield at Stadium field April 1 The spring grid drills will get under way within a few days, and will continue for four weeks Spring grid workouts will be particularly important. The Tygers face another heavy schedule with only an ordinary amount of tried talent remaining from last fall, and it will be necessary to build part of the lineup from material uncovered this spring . . . A card from Tucson Ariz., reveals that the Fovargues of the Coolridge golf club will be heading in this direction within a few days They expect to be on hand to open the links on April 1 . . . Steve Schomine Jock Collins' former assistant at Westbrook was an interested spectator at the state cage tourney. He'll return to the York Temple club in Columbus as head pro.

Mansfield and Ashland will continue their gridiron rivalry next fall in the neighboring city Inking of contracts a few days ago quieted rumors that the two schools will break relations . . . Bill McKee, Ashland scribe was in the city the other night to take a peek at Chuck Chuckovits but doesn't think he'll tie with Hank Luisetti . . . Incidentally, there is a possibility that Chuckovits' team will be returned to Mansfield for a tussle with a quintet featuring Jimmy Hull, Ohio State great. . . . 'Buzz' Wetzel Mansfield club business manager, who has been ailing in his hotel room, is up and around again. . . . And, we may add, 'Buzz' and his boss Norman Cohen, are making a host of friends in this burgh as they are getting things ship-shape for the coming Ohio State league season Both are in demand for luncheon speeches

NEW EUROPEAN DEVELOPMENTS UPSET MARKET

Stocks Drop Recent Gains as Germany's New Conquest Takes Memel.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market quickly relinquished today the gains scored on a preceding rally.

Hasty on the retreat were such shares as U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, U. S. Rubber, Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Sperry, International Nickel and Douglas. Bonds and most commodities also were soggy.

The move to add Memel to the expanding German empire kept financial centers alert. London and other foreign markets exhibited renewed nervousness.

A flattening out in steel demand was reported by the "Iron Age." The trade publication said it was believed to be only a temporary interruption and noted it had coincided with the European crisis.

Second quarter operations of the industry, the publication said, would average "not less than 60 per cent" of capacity against an average for the first quarter of about 54 per cent.

Expansion in spring building was seen in better demand for construction supplies and a slow rise in prices.

Appeals Court Gives Ruling in Ashland Faber Case.

ASHLAND — Attempts of two bonding companies to obtain their release from $40,000 bond under which H. O. Faber is serving as county treasurer failed today when the Fifth district appeals court reversed a common pleas court decision which had dismissed the bonding companies.

The district court's decision upheld a ruling of the Ashland county commissioners who refused to release the bonding companies after Faber was indicted by the grand jury for embezzlement and destruction of public records.

The appeals court's decision held that the board of county commissioners is an administrative body and its decisions cannot be appealed to common pleas court. The American Surety company and the New York Casualty company appealed the commissioners' ruling and their appeal was upheld in common pleas court Feb. 9.

BOSTON WOOL

BOSTON—(AP)—(U. S. Dept. Agr.)—wools were moving very slowly in the Boston market yesterday. Most buyers were adhering to a waiting attitude pending the outcome of opening of the fall season goods. Occasional small transactions afforded the only basis indicating the trend of prices. Average to short French combing length fine territory spot wools of the old clip have been sold, in original bags, at 62-63c, scoured basis. A few small transactions have been closed on country-packed mixed grade lots of three eighths and quarter blood bright fleece wools at around 26-28c, in the grease, to be delivered east in May.

CURB PLANTING

Ohio Farmers Cut Corn and Oats Crops, Expert Says.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Less oats and corn will be planted by Ohio farmers in 1939 as compared to last year, Glenn S. Ray, statistician of the Ohio co-operative crop reporting service, estimated today.

He estimated 1939 plantings of corn at 3,425,000 acres, a decrease of four per cent from 1938. Oats showed "intentions" of 1,127,000 acres, a one per cent decrease.

event of further political aggression" by Germany—not waiting for any possible territorial aggression.

Russia wanted the declaration made firmer and to put in it at least an intimation that the four powers would consider military action against Germany.

Poland, gravely alarmed, wanted a firm military agreement.

The British government was advising Poland that any declaration to be effective must be issued at once. It was understood that Britain had assured Poland that actual military commitments would be made eventually, but that they would require discussions and thus, by delaying matters, decrease the effect of an immediate anti-aggression declaration.

As regards Memel, there was nothing that the British government could do. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, had made it plain that they could not oppose the absorption into Germany of areas which were German peopled.

Despite denials it was reported that Germany had given Lithuania a real ultimatum.

One version, reported in Paris, was that Germany had demanded that Lithuania hand over Memel within five days, the alternative being that German troops would occupy the area. It was said that Germany also said that, if the troops move in, she could not guarantee Lithuania's frontiers.

Danzig, too, is German peopled. It is a free city with an area of 754 square miles and a population of 407,000. It was taken from Germany after the World war and put under League of Nations protection. Poland, however, dominates it and it is a part of the Polish customs set-up. It has a heavily pro-Nazi parliament.

As regards the proposed four-power anti-aggression declaration, Great Britain was understood to have advised Russia that such a declaration need not conflict with the original Russian proposal for a six-power conference to consider actual measures against German expansionism.

So great were the international issues of the moment that the state visit of President Albert Lebrun was overshadowed. Lebrun and his wife were guests of honor last night at a state banquet at Buckingham palace.

AGED BELLVILLE WOMAN STRICKEN

Funeral of Mrs. Jane Shoemaker to Be Held Tomorrow.

BELLVILLE—Funeral services for Mrs. Jane Shoemaker, 82, of Bellville, who died in Mansfield General hospital Tuesday morning of a heart attack, will be held at the Newville M. E. church at 2 p. m. Thursday with Rev. I. K. Umbarger of Mansfield and Rev. Wintermuth of Bellville officiating. Burial will be in St. John's cemetery.

Mrs. Shoemaker spent most of her life near Perrysville and Newville. She was a member of the Newville M. E. church.

Surviving are her husband, George; a brother, Orlando Vanzik of Newville; three grandchildren, Mrs. Chester Harper of Marrow, Mrs. Roy D. Whisler and Mrs. Lucille Garner of Mansfield, and five great grandchildren. The body will be at the Shaffer funeral home until Thursday noon.

DO YOU

Now own a new or practically new 5 or 6 room house in the West or South side, with all modern conveniences, good sized lot and garage? And have you longed to be out on a few acres with a bearing orchard, a chance to raise chickens, and garden stuff, and incidentally live in a very lovely house of the best construction? If so we have what you are looking for, located on a Main Highway, which will give you a chance to have tourists and now with two fairs going, in opposite directions, there should be a chance this summer to make some real money in this field. This property can also be bought outright. For further information, call at our office only.

HITLER LEAVES TO TAKE OVER MEMEL 'GIFT'

Lithuania Bows to Pressure From Nazis, Cedes Baltic Port to Germany.

with discussion of German annexation of the free state of Danzig—frequently has been in the news since Chancellor Hitler came to power in 1933.

Predicted For Months.

Since the new parliamentary elections in Memelland last January showed Nazi gains, foreign quarters persistently predicted that Memel would be a part of the German reich before Hitler's 50th birthday, which is April 20.

A delegation from Lithuania was awaited here to settle all questions resulting from the Kaunas government's decision.

One problem undoubtedly will be the matter of determining when German troops should enter the territory. The territory is a narrow strip lying along East Prussia with the city of Memel as an important seaport on the Baltic.

Other matters to iron out undoubtedly will include what use Lithuanians shall have of the port facilities, although the little nation already has started developing another harbor farther north. The question of rights of Lithuanians now living in Memelland must be settled.

Propaganda Minister Goebbels' Der Angriff came out with a one-page spread as an extra edition announcing the new territorial acquisition. Chancellor Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter had an extra.

Both carried the inspired comment that "in the midst of outrageous agitation, which England is loosing against the reich, the news strikes like lightning that the ancient German Memelland is free again.

Thank the Fuehrer.

"One single cry of jubilation sweeps over Germany. We are living in a time for great recompensation. Our hearts are burning with pride. We thank the Fuehrer.

"Our feelings go out towards the land in the east which was robbed from us in 1923. In spirit we are with our brothers in Memel who have borne so much sorrow. Today these difficult times are ended."

DNB reported from Memel that sirens howled and bells of churches pealed when the news was known in the port city. Swastika flags were put out from houses. Crowds streamed through the streets.

There were these other developments having a bearing on the international situation:

The press continued strong criticisms of western democracies for what Germany considers efforts at "encirclement" of the authoritarian states (by a British-sponsored "Stop Hitler" bloc.)

Newspapers specifically attacked the United States for its note declaring absorption of Czechoslovakian Bohemia and Moravia was illegal.

Study U. S. 'Penalty.'

The German economics ministry was reported studying the 25 per cent extra duties imposed by the United States on most German goods, presumably with a view to retaliatory action.

Upon returning from the theater last night, Chancellor Hitler received the news that Italy, through the fascist grand council, endorsed his action in Czechoslovakia.

The Boersenzeitung declared of the American note that United States policy was "sailing in the wake" of England, France and Soviet Russia. The paper declared that "a will to armed intervention is hidden behind the pseudo-moral gestures of the white house."

The paper added that each "Rooseveltian speech of threats cost the European peoples at least $100,000,000 in armament expenditures," and that these speeches "therefore were remembered by Germany as it took the opportunity to make the borders of the reich in the Bohemia and Moravia territory watertight.

It was taken for granted that the American note would be rejected as coldly as were similar representations from France and Britain—on the ground that it lacked "political, legal or moral foundation."

State of Emergency Declared In Lithuania.

KAUNAS, Lithuania—(AP)—A state of emergency was proclaimed throughout little Lithuania today, shortly after the government announced formally the return to Germany of the World war lost Baltic territory of Memel.

The Lithuanian cabinet announced the return of Memel, 1,099 square mile territory with 150,000 mostly German population, early this morning.

German storm troop formations and Memel Nazis at once began taking over public buildings, the radio station and other posts in the city of Memel, which has been Lithuania's only port.

German storm troopers halted the frenzied flight of Jews and other refugees from the little territory.

The Lithuanian army began gradual evacuation of Memel.

The state of emergency declared by the government resembles martial law. Officials said one reason it was proclaimed was to facilitate withdrawal of the Lithuanian troops.

A Lithuanian defense ministry official declared, however, that German storm troops crossed the frontier at Skirvyte, that they disarmed Lithuanian frontier police, stopped freight cars and trucks carrying refugees and property out of Memel and forbade all to leave the territory.

Their activities, this official said, virtually stopped the exodus of refugees. He declared that storm troopers even occupied the Memel light-house.

The official said the Lithuanian army in Memel was evacuating equipment and that withdrawal of Lithuanian troops was imminent.

Germans In Danzig Hang Out Nazi Flags.

DANZIG — (AP) — News that Memel had been returned to Germany spread quickly through the Free City of Danzig today and raised hopes of hundreds of thousands of Germans here that reunion of Danzig with Germany might be only a short time off.

While only a few days ago the general feeling was that Danzig must bide its time, authorities now expect difficulty in restraining the German populace from raising the familiar cry, "We want to return home to the reich."

Telephone lines from Danzig to Warsaw were jammed with "state calls," indicating that there was a lively exchange of views between Polish diplomatic representatives in Danzig and the Warsaw foreign office.

Germans of Danzig on hearing the news of Memel's severance from Lithuania immediately brought out their Nazi flags. Children at school were given a holiday.

BUCHAREST, Rumania—(U.P.)—Bucharest assumed a war-like aspect today with soldiers equipped for war marching through the streets.

Around military barracks, the streets were filled with reservists summoned to the colors. It was understood so far about 300,000 reservists belonging to the second, fifth, sixth and seventh army corps stationed in Transylvania and southern Rumania have been called up. The present military strength of Rumania therefore is about 500,000.

Food hoarding assumed panicky proportions. Sugar was almost unobtainable. Banks so far have been able to continue paying out deposits, which are increeasingly being withdrawn.

Traffic in Bucharest was greatly handicapped because so many chauffeurs have been called up to drive army trucks. Taxicabs also were being requisitioned for military service.

Story of Passion To Be Unfolded In 4-Hour Production

For four hours Sunday, the story of the last days of Christ on earth will be unfolded in a religious pageant as the Cleveland Mercede players present "The Passion Play" at the Mansfield High school auditorium.

The lengthy production which will get under way at 2 p. m. and continue to 6 p. m., is divided into five acts and a prologue and will be staged here as a fitting observance of Passion Sunday. The play is being sponsored by Prince Umberto lodge of the Sons of Italy.

The Mercede Italian players have been presenting the Passion Play for several years and have given it in a number of cities in Ohio. They carry as cast of 100 players with authentic scenery and costumes.

Among the Biblical characters who are woven into the story, beside the Christus, are the 12 Apostles, the Virgin Mary, Mary Magdalene, Veronica, Pontius Pilate and his wife, Claudia, and officials and priests of Jerusalem.

Tickets for the play are available at the Davis drug store and Kafer's floral shop.

was a director of the Richland County Auto club.

Mr. Morris was born Oct. 26, 1869, at Shenandoah and resided on a farm until he was 17 years old, after which he attended Angola college at Angola, Ind. For several years he was employed in the carpet department of the old Goss, Hott and Sturges store in Mansfield, and during the panic of 1893 was a street car conductor in Toledo.

One of his favorite stories was to the effect that in the late 1890's he opened a grocery store, his first business on a capital of $9.37, at North Broadway and East Smiley avenue in Shelby. At the end of the first year he had paid off all of his indebtedness and had a stock of merchandise worth $2,000.

He sold the grocery business in 1904 and engaged in real estate, a business he continued to operate until his death.

In 1895 he married Miss Lamintie Fickes of Shelby, who with her three daughters, survive. They are Mrs. Iva Noland of Cleveland, Mrs. Martha Armstrong, Chicago, and Mrs. William Douglass of Shelby. A grandson and two great-granddaughters also survive.

Mr. Morris was a member of the Knights of Pythias, the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, and was affiliated with the First Presbyterian church.

Funeral services will be held at the home, 54 Marvin avenue, at 3 p. m. Friday, with the Rev. A. B. Allison officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

All city offices of Shelby will be closed Friday afternoon as a tribute to the former mayor, Mayor D. B. Young announced.

DEFERS ACTION

3 at Meeting, Health Board Postpones Code Decision.

With only three of its five members present at a postponed meeting last night, the Mansfield board of health deferred action on proposed revisions in the city's plumbing code.

Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, secretary of the board said today that the legislation would "probably" be presented at the next regular meeting April 10.

The three members attending the session last night were Atty. J. H. Gongwer, Dr. K. E. Buhr and Glenn L. Bierly. Dr. R. R. Black and Emil Aderman were absent.

The revised ordinance which was to have been presented as an emergency measure calls for the establishment of a plumbing board of examiners and the extension of the authority of the plumbing inspector.

2 INJURED AS AUTOS COLLIDE

Mansfielder Treated at Hospital After Crash on Route 30-N.

Charles E. Robnolte, 711 West Third street, was treated at General hospital Tuesday evening for injuries suffered when his car and one driven by Donald F. Wilson, 596 Biglow road, collided at 6:15 p. m. one mile west of Mansfield on U. S. route 30N.

Robnolte suffered lacerations of both legs and the forehead, and chest injuries, according to State highway patrolmen. Wilson suffered right knee injuries.

According to patrolmen, Wilson, traveling west, was struck by Robnolte as he was making a turn into a driveway. Wilson told patrolmen he saw no cars coming when he started to make the turn. The accident occurred on the crest of a knoll.

JURY TO PROBE ASHLAND SLOT MACHINE CASE

Roadhouse Proprietor Freed on Bond After Officers Confiscate Machine.

ASHLAND—After posting bond of $300, Willard Zehner, who pleaded not guilty to charges of "exhibiting a gambling device" in his roadhouse on route 42 west of Ashland, was released, but was bound over to the county grand jury.

Zehner, who was arrested shortly after 2 p. m. Tuesday, was taken before J. H. Armstrong, local justice of the peace, who on hearing the plea bound the defendant over to the grand jury.

Machine Seized.

Zehner's arrest came one day after a complaint was heard by Sheriff Dale Hammond that a slot machine was being exhibited at Zehner's place. The machine was seized by officers of the sheriff's department, and arrest of Zehner withheld until a check could be made into the situation.

Zehner's arrest comes close to two months after gambling devices were taken over by Ashland county officers in another part of the county. This is the first arrest made here since the Ashland county grand jury declared it illegal to exhibit any kinds of grambling devices in this county over about a year ago, when the then Judge C. C. Chapman called attention to the many gaming devices prevalent in this county.

Conviction on the charge, according to A. Ross Siverling, Ashland county prosecuting attorney, would mean a fine of from $10 to $500, a jail sentence of ten days to three months or both, and a bond of $500 for good behavior.

House Group Approves $116,539,287 for U. S. Defense

FUND SET UP FOR 'CRITICAL' ARMY NEEDS

Appropriation Would Pave Way to Obtain More Guns, Tanks, Gas Masks.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Another integral part of President Roosevelt's emergency defense program—this one calling for $116,539,287—started through congress today with approval of the house appropriations committees.

The money, earmarked to supply "critical" equipment needs of the army and to bolster seacoast defenses, was included in a deficiency appropriation bill carrying a total of $185,672,028 in direct appropriations and contractural authorizations.

In addition to the military funds, which supplement the $499,000,000 already approved by the house in the war department's regular appropriation for the coming fiscal year, the bill would make up shortages for a number of other governmental agencies.

The defense item would permit the army to buy more semi-automatic rifles, light and heavy artillery, tanks, anti-aircraft guns, gas masks and similar equipment, but the committee reported 67 per cent of the shortages in this field would still exist.

Cut by $27,962,000.

The committee slashed $27,962,903 from presidential recommendations dealt with in the bill but some of the reductions may be restored later.

One of the largest single cuts was $7,300,000 recommended by President Roosevelt for training 20,000 civilian airplane pilots. The committees suggested that the training would be "better and more economically accomplished if the matter were placed in the hands of the army" instead of the Civil Aeronautics authority, as proposed.

The committee turned down a proposal for a huge research laboratory in California.

It approved an additional $2,140,000 for air research facilities at Langley field, Virginia.

The group, turning to other fields, denied a request for $5,000,000 to be added to WPA funds for construction of irrigation projects in the great plains area.

Without change, the committee recommended $16,070,425 in items requested by the treasury department.

The committee also approved the navy's request for $36,700,000 to carry on the shipbuilding program authorized last year.

Other items in the bill include $2,480,000 for the forest service to fight fires; $1,000,000 for irrigation systems on Indian reservations and $2,000,000 for the United States employes' compensation commission.

SLAYER OF TWO DIES IN CELL

Michigan Killer Suspect Found Hanging In Jail.

STANTON, Mich. — (U.P.) — George W. Beebe, 69, of Indianapolis, Ind., held for the slaying of a middle-aged farm couple at Greenville, Mich., was found dead in his jail cell this morning. Sheriff Chris Hansen said Beebe had hanged himself.

Beebe's body was found by Hanson's wife. He had used his pajamas to make a noose.

Beebe was arrested 15 minutes after Ralph Huntley, 59, and his wife, Frances, 57, were shot fatally in front of their farm home south of Greenville.

Officers said Beebe and Huntley engaged in an argument when Huntley ordered Beebe from the farm.

A short talk on safety practices was given by Patrolman Frend C. Boals, advisor for the council which represents approximately 6,000 children in the city's grade schools.

The next meeting of the council will be held April 24 at the Country Day school, Miss Jean Platt, secretary announced.

STATE PUSHES CROSSING PLAN

Asks for Jury to Set Value of Property Needed for Grade Elimination.

In a move to clear the way for a grade crossing elimination project on route 30N just east of Crestline, Robert S. Beightler, state highway director, today asked that a jury be chosen in Richland county common pleas court to determine the value of four properties in the vicinity of the proposed improvement.

The director's application seeks to have dates set for hearings at which a jury will be asked to place a value on lands owned by Sherman Holt, Johnson Oil Refining company, the Marion Reserve Power company, and Albert D. Miller.

The state highway department was unable to effect settlements for easement rights on properties owned by the four defendants, the application said.

The project, which has been pending for several years, would eliminate a dangerous crossing at the Pennsylvania railroad on route 30. Work probably will be started on the project during the summer, highway officials said.

STUDIES PLANS

Bucyrus Council Opens Debate on $94,000 Sewer Program.

BUCYRUS—A preliminary survey for a storm sewer system, which if adopted will relieve flooded basements in the city during heavy rains, was outlined before city council Tuesday night and referred to the platting committee for further consideration.

The plan, drawn up by Kenneth Shafer, sanitary engineer of Mansfield, who was employed last fall after many complaints had been filed by property holders, calls for an expenditure of approximately $94,000. Of the total approximately $54,000 could be furnished by federal grant under WPA, leaving the city's share approximately $40,000.

The sewage service rate was set at one third the water bill for domestic rates and other rates based on that percentage. A sewage rate committee was appointed to include the service and safety directors and one member of council, yet to be named.

LEGION MEETS

BUCYRUS—Plans for the entertainment of units from other parts of the county were laid by the Bucyrus American Legion auxiliary, when the group met Monday night at the Legion home.

ASKS PWA FOR NEW DEADLINE

Shelby Seeks Extension of Time to Complete Project at Electric Plant.

SHELBY — Application for an extension of time for the completion of Shelby's $200,000 PWA addition and improvements to the municipal electric plant today was filed with PWA officials at Columbus by city officials. A resolution authorizing city officials to make application for an additional four-month period for completion of the project was approved last night by city council.

The project was scheduled to be completed by contractors by Aug. 22, while if the extension of time is granted by PWA, the completion date will be Dec. 22. Additional time is needed for the project, city officials said, due to the delay of PWA officials in approving the contractor's bids. The bids were submitted to PWA officials by the city on Oct. 21, but they were not approved by PWA until Dec. 19.

A motion made by Councilman Chester Bell to have Law Director Theodore Lutz draw up a resolution to have the street and sidewalk crossings over the Big Four and Baltimore and Ohio railroads improved by the city street department and charged to the railroads' taxes if not paid, was unanimously approved by council. It was seconded by Councilman Charles Swanger.

Crossings on Franklin avenue, East Whitney avenue, East Main street and East Smiley avenue over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and on West Main street, North Gamble street, West Smiley avenue and North Broadway avenue over the Big Four railroad are expected to be included under the resolution for improvements Action will be taken by the council on the resolution at the next regular meeting on April 3.

KIDNAP VICTIM DIES

HILLSBORO — (AP) — Harley Spruance, 65, whose kidnaping for a $3,000 ransom last May led to a four-year federal penitentiary sentence for James E. Marritt, 26, died Monday at his home here.

REVIVED 'TOWN HALL' TO TAKE UP WATER PROBLEM TOMORROW

The rehabilitation of Mansfield's water distribution system through a proposed $600,000 bond issue will be the topic of discussion as "Town Hall" is revived by the Chamber of Commerce in its assembly rooms at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Representatives of various civic organizations are expected at the meeting which was called by C. L. VanDerau, president of the chamber, for the purpose of creating sentiment in favor of improving the water system.

At the request of the chamber, George Tatnall of Chicago, an engineer for the National Board of Fire Underwriters, will attend the meeting and outline the water supply and its relation to fire insurance rates.

VanDerau said the group would be asked to "get behind" a movement to "put over" the proposed bond issue which the chamber's board of directors has asked city council to submit to the voters at the August primaries.

The request for the rehabilitation of the distribution system was made by the board following a $40,000 Woodland fire two weeks ago that revealed an inadequacy in the water supply in that district because of under-sized mains.

ATTORNEYS, SECRETARIES WILL SETTLE SPELLING FEUD FRIDAY

A momentous battle of vowels and consonants will take place Friday evening at Grotto hall when a team of Mansfield attorneys and a team of lawyers' secretaries engage in an orthographic contest.

There has always been a "feeling," which never quite reached the feuding state, between lawyers and their secretaries as to the best spellers—the men who dictated the letters or the gals who wrote 'em.

Friday night Baku Grotto will match the two teams in a spelling bout at their hall in the King building and the public is invited to be in "at the death."

The battle is being sponsored by The News-Journal which will provide $15 in cash prizes for the winners.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch will serve as spelling master and scores will be marked up on a blackboard. A system of credits will be used which has been carefully worked out so as to give no preference to one speller over the other.

For the first one hundred words, each person will have three "misses"——that is he or she may misspell two words without going down. The third miss sends them out of the team. A credit of ten will be given for a word spelled correctly the first time it is offered. If the first person misses it goes to another person on the opposing team and only a credit for five points is accorded then if it is correctly spelled.

After the first one hundred words—and the first hundred are the easiest—spellers will not be given a second chance. They go down whenever they miss a word.

At the end of the contest, whether everyone is spelled down or there is a draw, the prizes will go to those with the highest scores.

Representing the attorneys will be J. H. Gongwer (a former school teacher and school principal; John F. Kramer, who is a McGuffey speller; A. S. Beach, who is also an old-timer; George Biddle and Robert Nichols, both of whom pride themselves on their orthographic talents. Alternates are Marion Ward and Harold Burns of the younger legal group.

Representing the secretaries will be Frieda Gorby, secretary to Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch; Helen Mamber, secretary to Weldon and Huston; Myrtle Booth, secretary to Charles H. Keating, attorney and president of Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company; and two other secretaries yet to be named.

Arrangement for the contest are being made by Attorney C. H. Freehafer and L. A. Cook.

DR. HELFRICH TO BE BURIED AT GALION FRIDAY

Columbus Physician, Crawford Native, Was Widely Known in Medical Circles.

GALION—The body of Dr. Edward Daniel Helfrich, 63, well known Columbus physician and native of Galion, will be brought to the Whittridge mortuary here Thursday afternoon. Funeral services will be held at the mortuary here on Friday at 2:30 p. m., and burial will be made in Fairview cemetery. Services will be held in Columbus on Thursday afternoon.

Dr. Helfrich died at his home in Columbus Thursday.

He was born in Galion Dec. 6, 1875, the son of the late Wendel and Mary (Zimmerman) Helfrich, pioneer resident of this community. After attending the Galion public schools, he studied pharmancy and at the age of 16 went to Philadelphia where he later graduated from the Philadelphia School of Pharmacy. After he graduated he managed a drug store on South High street, Columbus, and later graduated from Starling Medical college in 1902.

Went to New York.

He began the practice of medicine in Galion and practiced here for nearly two decades. He left Galion in 1919 and went to New York City to specialize in the treatment of ear, eye, nose and throat and graduated from the Manhattan hospital there in 1920 after which he located in Columbus.

In 1908 he built the office building on South Market street now occupied by Dr. Mart L. Helfrich. He was twice elected coroner of Crawford county, and later served two terms as a member of the Ohio legislature from Crawford county, being first elected in 1916 and again in 1918. He served as a captain in the Medical Corps during the World War.

At the time of his death he was treasurer of the American Citizen Life Insurance company of Columbus. He was a member of the Humboldt Lodge of Masons, the Scottish Rite, Aladdin Temple of the Shrine, and the Elks lodge at Columbus. He was active in Masonic lodges while in Galion, and at one time served as High Chief Ranger of the state organization of Foresters.

Surviving are his widow, Gertrude Bodey Helfrich; a daughter, Mary Martha Ogier, and three grandchildren all of Columbus, and two sisters, Mrs. Harry C. Dye and Mrs. Arthur L. Manzer both of Galion. A son, Eugene, died while the family lived in Galion.

Appearing in its first debate of the year, the Senior high school team yesterday afternoon lost to a more experienced Zanesville high team in a debate at Senior high school. Subject debated was, "An Anglo-American Alliance."

The Mansfield negative team comprised Robert Roth and Mary Lou Sowash, and the affirmative was made up of Harold Williams and Clara Beer. The two Zanesville teams were made up of four students each. Walter Mickey is adviser of the Mansfield team.

LUTZ PROTESTS

Opposes Additional $40,000 for Fair But Bill's Okayed.

Opposing an additional $40,000 appropriation for the Ohio display at the New York World's Fair, Ralph C. Lutz, Richland county representative to the general assembly, told the Ohio house finance committee yesterday that he thought the $100,000 already set aside for the fair was enough.

"I don't want this to sound like 'sour grapes' because I was kicked off the commission," said Lutz who was displaced when Gov. John W. Bricker took office and reorganized the fair group. Lutz was not recorded on the motion to recommend passage, carried unanimously.

Already passed by the senate, the $40,000 appropriation was recommended by the house finance committee which rejected a demand for display of farm products in the Ohio exhibit.

Arthur Hamilton, director of Ohio's exhibit, told the committee that it was impossible to show specific items because his office had been besieged with requests to display almost every conceivable thing, from quilts to a stuffed horse.

BOOK AUTHOR

Primary Teachers Will Hear Bromfield April 24.

Louis Bromfield, Mansfield author, will be guest speaker at the Mansfield primary teachers' buffet party Monday night, April 24, at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, Miss Dora McLeod, primary supervisor, announced today.

Bromfield is scheduled to speak on "Democracy in Daily Living." The program will also include numbers by A Cappella choir, community singing directed by A. LeMoine Derr, director of vocal music in Mansfield schools, and violin selections by S. K. Jorgensen, director of orchestra and band in the schools

Miss McLeod said invitations had been sent to 160 persons, including Mr. and Mrs. Bromfield; W. L. Miller, superintendent of schools, board of education members, and principals, supervisors and teachers and their wives.

Comfort during severe weather

"The Williamson Heater Company:

Our Triplife was installed in August 1936 and, as a heater, is not surpassed by any other I have seen. It is neat and compact in construction and makes a very good appearance. We have an eight room house, with two hallways and a large closed-in porch All are very comfortably heated during the most severe weather."

LECTURES HERE ON WILD LIFE

Naturalist to Illustrate Talk on Canadian Rockies at Legion Home April 6.

Dan McCowan of Banff, Alberta, Canada, well known Canadian authority on wild life of North America, will deliver a public lecture April 6 at the American Legion auditorium under the auspices of the Mansfield Photographic society.

McCowan, a naturalist and wild game photographer employed by the Canadian government, will illustrate his talk with a pictorial review of the Canadian rockies, exhibiting lantern slides from his own photographs of birds, game and wild flowers.

Hailed as a philosopher and humorist with a Scots "burr," McCowan's lectures have been presented by the Cleveland Photographic society for the past six years.

Al Strachan, president of the Mansfield Photographic society said that the lecture will be open to the public without charge.

BARTENDER SUES

Asks $2,000 Damages in Suit Against Cafe Owners.

A suit for $2,000 damages had been filed in common pleas court today against the proprietors of the Ringside cafe by John E. Koser, Mansfield, who asks that amount for injuries he allegedly received while employed at the cafe last Jan. 15.

Koser, a bartender, contends that his arm and hand were injured by William Kreinbihl, minor son of Carl H. Kreinbihl, one of the proprietors, when the son assaulted him as Koser was serving liquor to two women.

Young Kreinbihl knocked the bottle from his hand and grabbed him by the throat, Koser contends in his petition, to prevent the serving of liquor after the legal closing time. In attempting to serve the liquor after midnight, Koser asserts that he was acting on instructions from Mathias N. Civay, chief bartender.

John Hergatt and Carl H. Kreinbihl as proprietors are named defendants in the action. Koser is represented by Atty. R. J. Brown.

STRIKE AGAIN AT SAN QUENTIN

Prisoners Refuse Food; Warden Blames "15 Trouble-Makers."

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. —(AP)— Authorities of San Quentin prison acted today to break the second hunger strike of convicts in two months, and hinted at a plan to revoke the good behavior credits of strike leaders.

"The whole thing," said Warden Court Smith, "is due to about 15 trouble makers."

Sixteen hundred of the 5,300 inmates of San Quentin, reputedly America's most populous prison, refused to eat their evening meal yesterday after a protest against the prison fare. Later, however they went quietly to their cells along with 3,700 other convicts who had failed to join the strike.

Does Your Breath Broadcast—"I WEAR FALSE TEETH"?

Play Safe—Be Sure—Use Polident

People who wear plates or bridges often suffer from a special kind of bad breath. Dentists call it—"denture breath."

You won't know if you have it—but it can spoil your happiness. Friends will shudder—people avoid you! And the worst of it is that ordinary brushing may not prevent it. Neither will mouth washes. For the odor comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum soaks up germs and decay bacteria and causes a vile odor that you cannot detect.

One thing that definitely will stop "denture breath" is Polident! This new brushless cleaner has won the approval of thousands of dentists. Users say it's a blessing.

Polident not only purifies false teeth—but also removes all stain, tarnish and deposits. Makes breath sweeter—plates look better and feel better. Costs only 30¢ at any drug store and lasts for many weeks. Money back if not delighted.

Cleans, Purifies Like Magic

Do this daily: Add a little Polident powder to ½ glass water. Stir. Then put in plate or bridge for 10 to 15 minutes—Rinse—and it's ready to use!

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 22, 1939.

It takes a second thought to realize that the much talked about "1940" is next year.

With conditions in Europe as they are, this should be an excellent summer to "see America first."

Vice President Garner has been fingerprinted—merely to establish identity in the event of a double expressing approval of New Deal policies.

Spreading 'Civilization.'

EXPANSION of dictatorship countries nowadays is rather uniform in its technique. Hitler, resuming the march that began with the seizure of the Sudetenland, continues his "rescue work" in a spirit of benevolent assimilation. The language of his proclamation explaining the annexation of Czechoslovakia is interesting.

He finds that country in a reign of terror, and is impelled by humanitarian motives to move to the rescue not only of oppressed Germans, but of the Slovaks and Czechs themselves. The troops he sends into Bohemia and Moravia—ancient homes of the authentic Czechs—are intended to "disarm terrorist bands and Czech forces protecting them, and thereby guarantee a basis for introduction of fundamental regulation which will do justice to the thousand-year-old history and practical necessity of the German and Czech people."

He also refers, very curiously, to this region as "a territory which belonged to the German reich for more than a thousand years.". If that is true, the usually accepted histories and geographies must be all wrong.

The similarity of this conquest with the Japanese pattern in China is rather obvious.

Child-Bride In Huron County.

LEST there be too much of an inclination to adversely criticise conditions in other states which sometimes tolerate child marriages, it may be well to take a look at the Huron county case reported yesterday, in which it was possible for a 14-year-old fifth grade school girl to be married in an adjoining Ohio county.

From information available, it appears that the girl's parents stated her age as being 16, and that probate court waived the requirement for a lapse of five days between issuance of license and the marriage ceremony.

Background in this case, according to the probate judge of Huron county, is that the girl is a parolee from the Delaware home for girls; that her mother has served a workhouse sentence on a delinquency charge involving another daughter, and that the groom is 22 years old and unemployed.

It seems none too soon for the proposed revision of Ohio's marriage laws to be carried through, with stricter adherence to the provisions of the five-day requirement in issuing licenses.

Retirement Pay for Congressmen.

WHETHER seriously, or in jest, the idea of some sort of retirement pay, or direct pension, for members of congress, is being discussed. Speaker Bankhead has indicated that he deems the proposal worthy of further study.

Proponents of the "plan" argue that many men go to congress expecting to make that service a career, and if they are not re-elected find it difficult to resume former business or profession.

While there has been quite general public approval of pensions for federal judges after retirement age, and for civil service employes who have contributed a share to funds established for this purpose, the idea of extending such benefits to congressmen, or other elected officials, comes a little too abruptly to gain immediate acceptance—unless on the theory that government will soon be able to give pensions to everybody—in which event congressmen, of course, should not be discriminated against.

At least some people have assumed that aspirants for congress crave the honor, and the opportunity to serve, rather than being attracted by the compensation, and that earlier business or professional activities had made them financially independent to such extent that they would not afterward have to be supported by a pension.

Should this notion reach the point of serious consideration it may appear advisable to hold a referendum in advance of any such legislation becoming effective.

Railroad Improvement Program.

SOME have thought that our railroads were doomed to disappear, driven out by all-conquering automobiles, trucks and buses. But that was a rash conclusion. Rails are found to be better than rubber and concrete for heavy and bulky hauling particularly, and they still have their uses for minor freight and passenger traffic. So, instead of letting them die of neglect and obsoleteness, owners and public and government are planning to revive and modernize them.

According to a report of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Class I railroads propose to spend $717,000,000 on maintenance, improvements and extensions in the next three years. Much of this work, already overdue, has been postponed for lack of funds. The bulk of the money would go to make handling of traffic more cheap and efficient, thus holding and regaining business.

This should be at the same time a boost for the railroad industry, for general employment and for business revival.

Public School Music.

EDWARD JOHNSON, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera association, believes that music should be on a par with the three R's in school programs. The study of music, he says, is "the best channel for developing qualities which make people better and happier citizens. Through study of music, children acquire memory, perseverance, self-control, qualities which make for good character."

Music does not yet hold such a place in all our schools, but it has made tremendous advances in a generation and is a recognized credit subject in many places. Public school singing and orchestra playing are common in big city systems and are developing in small communities.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—So keen is our observation that in one day we detected a change in the Washington atmosphere.

Along about mid-March or early April each year we yearn to drop affairs of state and go over to see Larry La Rouche. La Rouche is to the Bureau of Indian Affairs what Grover Whalen is to the New York World Fair. He speaks for it, although he isn't the head of it, as Grover Whalen is of his show. (We like to keep writing Grover—elegant name, isn't it?) Also La Rouche has a moustache, somewhat less magnificent than Grover Whalen's.

La Rouche is soused in Indian stories. He has an office on the south side of the Interior Building and lets the sun stream in.

Oh, for an Adobe Wall.

IN NO time at all you begin to feel that it would be nice to sit on the warm side of a pueblo or hogan out in sunny New Mexico or Arizona and count the buzzards in the blue. Splendid peaceful thoughts come to people who sit on the second terrace of a pueblo, even though sometimes the flies are bad.

After leaving La Rouche we hove in to see Mr. Messersmith in the State Department to see if Europe still teetered on the brink of collapse. We went to see Senator Pittman about Europe and Nevada. Both were troubled. And to see Jerome Frank of the S. E. C. about troubled stocks and bonds.

Then we came back to the office to ponder and write and to read what others had pondered and written. That was when we sensed the change in the atmosphere.

Pastoral for a Day.

THREE learned men who also write daily pieces out of Washington had blossomed out with a single idea. They were tired of carrying around heavy international thoughts and were thinking it was time to sit on the side of a pueblo and sun awhile. Unanimously they decided to lay off for one day the job being a pundit.

They became positively pastoral. As the swing linguists would have it, they were splugfitten with the sun.

They were hauled one way by duty to help clarify the troubled problems of the world, and pulled another by an urge to say the devil with it. And they did the latter.

It always is a problem. An editor in New England writes that he likes it best when the column sticks to serious business. Yet from out in Minnesota a woman writes that while she is a glutton for knowledge she gets tired of the wrangling and jangling in Washington and wishes somebody would do something quick to fix it all up. Statistics, politics and economics are beginning to wear on her.

It was not until the woman had written, and we had thought of life among the pueblos and read the dreamy rhapsodies of the three Washington pundits, that it dawned clearly on us what had brought about the change in atmosphere.

It just took a glance at the calendar. Spring is here—in Washington, where even the buttercups watch the election returns.

THE NEW HARVEST HAND

Accounting Office Irks Spenders

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

NO THORN in the Roosevelt administration's side has hurt worse than the United States General Accounting office. This office is one of the 85 or 90 so-called "independent agencies" created by congress from time to time to attend to various duties which congress itself is too busy to deal with in detail.

They're variously described as "offices," "boards," "commissions," "authorities," "councils," et cetera. They have certain executive and certain judicial functions, but essentially they represent delegations of congressional power.

They include such outfits as the Interstate Commerce Commission, theUnited States Board of Tax Appeals, the Veterans Administration, the Tennesse Valley Authority, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and lots of others—among them the General Accounting Office. Nobody denies that there are too many of them; that they overlap and conflict; that they're confusing and wasteful; that they need consolidation and clarification almost from top to bottom.

They were established wholesale in early post-war days. President Coolidge wanted something done about them. So did President Hoover. Congress agreed and does yet, but Congress is dilatory. President Roosevelt, coming into office, became very urgent.

Accordingly, there was introduced at the last session of the national legislature the celebrated "government reorganization" plan, ostensibly designed to put some sense into the system.

Congress Balked.

The trouble was that the scheme, primarily of White House origin, aimed at giving practically complete control over these setups to the President, whereas Congress claims complete control over them. Congress was willing to let the Chief Executive make recommendations, but not to put them into effect without legislative indorsement.

The judicial wing of the government didn't care so much, for the supreme court has the power to nullify acts of congress by declaring them unconstitutional.

But here was a case in which the president sought power superior to the legislative branch—at which congress balked, for congress is exceedingly jealous of its rights under the constitution.

Consequently the "reorganization bill" fizzled at that session.

Yet it's up again this time.

At present the scheme is to give congress a qualified veto power over presidential reorganization proposals—more of a veto than the president likes, but not as much of a veto as a lot of congressmen demand.

How that controversy will come out is problematic.

There's another thing, though, insisted on by many lawmakers, which the White House resents exceedingly.

This item lists certain bureaus that the president is not permitted to tinker with at all.

One of them is the general accounting office.

And, of all others, the general accounting office is the set-up the administration wants to "doctor."

Passes on Expenditures.

Congress invented the General Accounting office in 1921.

The General Accounting office's job is to decide whether an expenditure, by an executive official, is O. K. If so, he gets his money back. If not, it comes out of his own pocket.

Congressmen realized that the office chief (the comptroller general) would be subjected to tremendous pressure. Therefore it gave him a 15-year irrevocable term, not subject to reappointment. He was to be made as independent as the traditional "hog on ice."

John Raymond McCarl got this appointment. He had been secretary to Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska—surely a Republican liberal. Later he was G. O. P. congressional campaign secretary—the G. O. P. was in control then, but certainly McCarl's record wasn't conservative.

Well, he surely threw a crimp into political expenditures. That was all right until the Democratic regime began. Then it started to be desperately annoying. It continued to be so until his 15-year term expired. At its end he couldn't be reappointed, and assuredly wouldn't have been anyway.

Nobody has been appointed to succeed him. Richard N. Elliott, his assistant, has followed him as acting comptroller general. And he's been as recalcitrant as McCarl ever was.

To be sure, the 15-year term doesn't apply to Elliott. He's only "acting." He can be supplanted any old time. But it would be rather embarrassing to displace him on the so obvious ground that he's unmanageable. It would be nicer to emasculate the general accounting office.

The idea is to limit that office to auditing expenditures after they've been made; not to preventing them beforehand.

The point's raised by Yale Professor Harvey C. Mansfield, who contends that the general accounting office has "outlived its usefulness."

However, Prof. Mansfield was a consultant on the staff of the president's committee on administrative management in 1937. Maybe he's slightly prejudiced. Still, his report will attract attention.

Health Advice

Danger In Uncooked Meat.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE United States Public Health Service made an astonishing statement when it said there are 16,000,000 people in the United States infected with trichinae.

This disease is due to the entrance into the body of a small worm, the trichinella spiralis. The entrance is made through the digestive canal; the trichinella enters imbedded in food. The food most frequently responsible is the flesh of pigs but beef can also be responsible.

In all animals, after the worm enters the intestine it makes its way through the blood stream to the muscles and there coils up. It is the presence of the worms in the muscles which causes the principal symptoms of the disease—pain, muscular stiffness, etc. For a while they may move freely through the body, but in the course of time they become encysted and lime salts are laid down around the cyst and further development ceases. This process takes about five months in man. In the hog it may be deferred for many years. The lime salts make these cysts easily seen and are readily recognized by anatomists.

Heat Kills It.

Heat kills the trichinella and it is only uncooked meat that is responsible for the spread of the disease. The commonest carriers are frankfurters and hamburgers.

"The average hot dog," an expert on the subject explains, "is barely warmed through before being slipped into its mustard bath in the yawning roll, while rare hamburgers, are preferred by many persons."

The meat Inspection Department of the United States government does not attempt to examine animals for the presence of trichinae. It was found thoroughly impractical to try to do so. If they were not found in a sample piece of muscle, they might be found elsewhere and to be thorough every bit of flesh on the animal would have to be examined. The department requires however, that food which is usually used uncooked shall be subjected to a temperature of 5° below zero for 20 days, which kills most of the parasites.

That the frequency of the disease is as high as the health reports suggests is shown by the experience of a pathologist in St. Louis. This man made a careful examination of the muscles of human bodies coming to autopsy. In a series of about 1,500 he has found an incidence of something like 16 per cent.

The symptoms of the disease may vary. One of the very common manifestations is swelling of the eyelids and of the whole face. The pain in the muscles may be very severe. There are no known means of killing the parasites once they have invaded the muscles. The safest method of dealing with the situation is to be sure to eat nothing but cooked meat.

A Farmer's Diary

Her New House.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

WE CALLED her Aunt Becky. Her boys were playmates of mine when I was a lad. She was a thin little woman, with a hearty laugh and a house overflowing with small children.

We moved away from that neighborhood, and I did not see her again until we boys were grown and scattered. Then, on a flying visit to old haunts, I stopped overnight with her and "Uncle Jim," at their home at the foot of the mountain. She was middle-aged now, still spry and active, but a little stooped. Uncle Jim showed me the orchards he had planted, and talked with pride and intelligence about the care of trees. "By the time I'm an old man," he said, "maybe I'll have something."

That evening I walked with Aunt Becky into her garden and we talked. She wondered that I had remained a bachelor so long. Most of her own boys had married early. I made some light remark, to the effect that no girl would have me, and asked her teasingly how she could ever have been sure Uncle Jim was the right one.

She looked at me straight above a bunch of red beets she had pulled, and her wise eyes were not fooled, although her broad mouth twitched.

"I believe in young marriages," she said. "It takes years to make a success of anything worth while—any young fellow is better off with the right wife."

"Didn't Uncle Jim ever disappoint you the least bit?" I asked her. "I know he's a good fellow, but——"

"I was awful disappointed about one thing," she admitted, then. "I'd always set my heart on havin' a new house, some day. When I finally come to see that Jim'd never be able to do it, it was a bitter pill. But he's goin' to have his orchard, and he's as tickled as a kid. So, maybe, it's better that way."

We walked into the house in silence.

Last week I heard that Aunt Becky had died. Her husband, seven sons and two daughers, with a host of grandchildren, are left. The little house on the orchard farm at the mountain's foot is as homely and rambling as ever. Aunt Becky has her new house now—"not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

Listen, World!

You Build Your Own Bad Temper.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ISN'T it just too pitiful about darling Amy! She's such an adorable girl—so brilliant, too—and the kindest heart! . . . if it weren't for her Uncontrollable Temper! Poor child, it just breaks her heart but she can't do a thing about it. She's tried everything . . . even went to one of those psychiatrist people.

"But it's perfectly hopeless. Tempers like that run on her father's side of the family. Why, her great-uncle Al almost killed a man in a fit of temper. And they say her cousin Fred goes practically crazy when one of his fits comes on."

You've heard explanations like that, haven't you? Maybe used them to explain some of your own didoes. I know I have! And they're certainly handy, aren't they? But, unfortunately, they're the bunk. For Tempers don't happen that way. A temper isn't something you're born with, like red hair or birthmarks. Nor does it run in the family tree. And there's no such a creature as a person with an "uncontrollable temper"—unless he or she is insane.

A TEMPER IS A PURELY PERSONAL PROJECT . . .

IT STARTS WITH YOU AND ENDS WITH YOU, AND YOU ALONE ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR ITS HIGHLY UNPLEASANT CONSEQUENCES.

THERE'S NOTHING MYSTERIOUS ABOUT A BAD TEMPER. IT IS THE SIMPLE AND INEVITABLE RESULT OF SELF-INDULGENCE.

Something irritates you . . . humiliates or challenges you. Being human, your first instinct is to let off steam. Hit out! So you do. You're ashamed of yourself at first. You struggle a bit before you blow up. But the next time the impulse happens, you don't struggle as much . . . you're not ashamed. It's easier to explode. Off you go again—a little more frankly and furiously this time.

Pretty soon you're saying you "can't help it" . . . telling yourself that you're "not to blame"... that you "take after Grandpa Edward's side of the family." Others join in . . . accept and repeat your alibi. And presently everyone is taking it for granted that you're a "Perfectly Delightful Person only, unfortunately, you've inherited that Awful Family Temper."

Piffle! You've inherited nothing save our common human tendency to do as you want to do. A Temper is simply Self Indulgence by a meaner name. You acquire one simply by indulging your emotions . . . and you can be cured, as simply, by controlling them.

Our human vanity, however, rebels against this verdict. We like to think that we're "different" from the other fellow . . . that we have special sensibilities which he lacks . . . special temptations which he does not feel. Phooey!

WHEN IT COMES TO A BAD TEMPER, WE'RE ALL IN THE SAME BOAT. WE MAY, IN TIME, DEVELOP OUR CUSSEDNESS BEYOND THE NORMAL POINT, BUT WE ALL HAVE THE ORIGINAL MAKINGS. THE MOST MEEK-MOUSIE LITTLE CLERK GETS AS HOT UNDER THE COLLAR AS THE TOUGHEST GANG "GORILLA" . . . AND JUDY O'GRADY HAS NOTHING ON THE COLONEL'S LADY WHEN IT COMES TO THROWING A TANTRUM!

So you 'n' I'd better get over thinking we're "different" or "helpless" or the victims of vicious heredity. We're neither. We're just plain cussed . . . and we can snap out of it whenever we please.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Humbug.

Nobody knows how the term started, that is, not for certain—which assures us of a bevy of explanations.

About three quarters of a century ago, "humbug," can't synonym for "deception," was thought by some to be a corruption of Hamburg, in allusion to the notoriously false bulletins about wartorn Europe emanating from that German city and after which, fakes, shams and hoaxes of all description came to be so-called.

Reasonable as this version seems, it must be discarded, for the recorded use of the word "humbug" goes back to the middle of the eighteenth century.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Jim Farley is one of Washington's most frequent commuters to Manhattan, but unless you know him personally or gain an appointment with him through Mrs. Duffy at headquarters, it is practically impossible to gain a daytime audience with him.

And when you do the chances are you will find him dictating letters to three or four secretaries simultaneously. This is not an exaggeration or a figure of speech. He actually dictates three and four letters at once.

No one knows how frequently he plies between New York and the capital, but he has been known to make the stretch five times in a single week. His energy is amazing. No one ever saw Jim when he looked tired or harassed. He always has a spring to his step and a pleasant countenance.

The elevator boys and the bell hops at his hotel tell me he has an understanding with the management that word of his coming and going is never to be released. They say people who want to see him frequently hang around the lobby for hours, and sometimes for days, waiting for him to step out of an elevator. That apparently is their best bet. The bell hops can't be bribed. If you ask clerks for news of his whereabouts they favor you with a blank expression and say, "Mister, we never heard of him."

"This liquor salesman, a mild looking gink, finished his glass of milk and said:

"'Don't ever say that, Happy. I did once, and regretted it.

"'There was a girl who used to come to my bar back in the old days, and I used to say to her, in a joking way, "Honey, if you could cook and I wasn't already married I'd marry you in a minute.

"'Well, this girl became my cashier, and I used to tell her, always joking, that I'd marry her if she could cook and I didn't have a wife.

"'You know what? That girl learned to cook and then my wife died and she wanted me to marry her. She finally became so insistent that I had to fire her.

"'Listen, Happy, don't ever say that, even joking'."

THIS may distress you, or amuse you, or leave you unmoved. But toy manufacturers insist that the adolescent preference has again turned to war. Their displays recently at the New Yorker revealed miniature planes that actually dropped toy bombs, new design tanks with guns fore and aft, battle cruisers and smaller arms.

The new toys are more expertly made than previously. They are made in the U. S. A. They show regard for detail, amounting almost to scale models of equipment used in the field.

Manufacturers say this is an indication of world events molding adolescent opinion. They insist they themselves haven't anything to do with it. When there is a demand for a commodity they must meet that demand, or the market will go elsewhere.

CONVICT'S DAUGHTER + + +

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

"It's really because of me that mother's renting these rooms," Dinah explained in her friendly way, as she led Lona into the kitchen of the wing of the Morriss home Lona was planning to rent. "You see, mother's had to go to work in the library downtown. Some of the investments father left us have gone wrong, and she must make a living. I'd do it gladly for her if I could, but—you see how it is with me." She shrugged, and looked down at the wheel chair in which she sat, and a shadow crossed her bright face.

"It worries mother to have me here alone all day," she went on. "She thinks I can't manage. I can, of course, but if it will make her feel any easier, I'll be glad to have you in these rooms . . . that is, if you want them."

"They're perfect," Lona told her. "Just what I've been hoping for. I'm sure my husband—Mr. Bennett—will like them, too. Could I move right in, do you suppose?"

Dinah laughed. "Of course. Everything's ready." She wheeled over to the shiny cupboards and, flinging open the doors, revealed neat rows of shiny dishes against the painted interior. "Can you cook?" she demanded, and Lona laughed.

"I kept house for my father for years," she said, a sudden impulse to confide in this new found friend almost overcoming her.

"Would you—do you have to go for your clothes right away?" Dinah asked, then, her tinkly voice a little wistful. "Could you—stay for lunch with me? I was just ready to get it when you came. I hate eating alone!" The eyes clouded.

"Why, I'd love to!" Lona heard herself assenting, and knew that she meant it. She, too, had disliked to think of going back down town and eating alone. She wasn't to meet Jim until three o'clock, and there were almost three long hours before that.

She already felt at home in the roomy old-fashioned house as she followed the trundling wheel chair with its bright-haired occupant back across the hall into the sunlit living room.

"We could have lunch together every day like this," Dinah said, later, as they dawdled over tall glasses of iced tea across the white-clothed lunch table. "That is, if your husband—will he be home at noon?"

Lona shook her head. "It's going to be nice, having a friend," she said shyly. "I—somehow I haven't had many girl friends. Not since I was a youngster back home."

"You'll have friends here," Dinah told her. "This is a friendly town. Some time soon I'll have a party and you can meet everybody." Her eyes glowed.

"You mean you'll introduce me to—your friends?" Lona knew suddenly how much she wanted to belong to people again, how much she missed being part of a circle.

"Of course." Dinah laughed her bright, merry laugh. "We know everybody, mother and I. And they'll all want to meet you."

"It won't make any difference that we're just—your renters? You've only known me an hour or so, you know."

Dinah laughed again. "I feel as if I'd known you always," she said. "Besides, I can judge people pretty well. Being always quiet the way I have to be, has made me sharp. I've nothing to do but study people. A shut-in gets to know expressions and what's in people's minds just by looking at them. We're sensitive, you know. Always afraid we're being a bother to someone, or making someone uncomfortable by our helplessness." She broke off with an expressive shrug of her straight shoulders and her bright face darkened a little.

"You don't seem like an invalid to me," Lona said. "Tell me about yourself. If you don't mind."

"It's infantile paralysis. I was all right until I was fifteen. Then it—got me. I've been in this chair four years now."

"And will you always—won't you ever—"

"Will I ever walk? The doctors say perhaps I will. Some time, they say . . . a some time that keeps moving farther and farther into the future. Mother thinks they're right and that I am getting stronger, but sometimes I wake up at night and wonder." She sighed.

"I think you're wonderfully brave, Dinah."

Reaching over, Lona clasped the thin white hand across the table. She wanted to say more, but something in the girl's face stopped her. There was a moment of awkward silence. Then Dinah smiled again, a smile that was a little twisted.

"I'm not brave!" she burst out. "I'm afraid! Terribly afraid! And I'm mad—mad clear through. But I daren't show it. Mother's got enough on her mind already without me getting morbid. She thinks I don't care, that I'm contented. I can't let her down!" She shrugged, and Lona saw a hurt look in the back of her blue eyes as the girl turned and began stacking up the lunch dishes.

"You must let me wash them!" Lona exclaimed, glad to get back to something commonplace again. "It must be dreadfully hard for you to manage."

But Dinah shook a stubborn head "I won't be babied," she said staunchly. "I can wash dishes as well as anybody, and it's my job. I wash them every day. See! If I turn my chair like this, I can reach the sink . . . If you'll just hand me that dish mop—"

"You simply must let me dry them. I wouldn't feel right," Lona began, but Dinah waved her away with a shake of her golden head.

"It's my job!" she said, almost fiercely. "I wash all the dishes for mother, dinner and all. It's about the only thing I CAN do, don't you see? I stack them here on the table all bright and clean—I can't reach the cupboard—and then I look at them standing there all shining and I feel better."

The blue eyes darkened for an instant, and met Lona's in a plea for understanding. "Silly of me, isn't it?" she brought out.

"Silly!" Lona felt suddenly humble. "I think it's beautiful, Dinah," she said, softly. "Beautiful!"

* * *

She and Jim would have their first dinner in Brighton in the new rooms, Lona planned that afternoon, as she waited for Jim on the busy little square. She had been shopping and her arms were ridiculously full of bundles. Steak, they were to have. And French fried potatoes, and a salad of ripe, red tomatoes—she had noted how absurdly fond Jim was of tomatoes Then there would be a deep apple pie chosen from the window of a fancy little bakery. A truly gala meal!

His eyes were dancing and she was glowing with eagerness when she caught sight of Jim's long legs threading through the crowd toward her just as the quaint town clock on the church steeple boomed out a cheerful three.

"Whew, girl!" he exclaimed at sight of her. "You must have bought out the town What's up?"

"I've found us a house, Jim." She was bubbling over. "The sweetest little apartment, with the nicest people. It's way out on Main street, and we're going out there for dinner. I've got the groceries—"

"And how!" He was taking the packages in his own big arms. They seemed mountainous now, and Lona laughed.

"I did sort of splurge, I guess," she confessed. "But it's our first meal in our own place. There were so many little things I had to get." She was shy, suddenly. "Did you—have any luck, Jim?"

"Luck?"

"About—getting work?" It seemed strange and a little bold to be so intimately concerned about his private affairs.

"I'm starting tomorrow morning. It'll be a three-months job, too. Right up until the ice comes. We're all set, girl. Hope you'll like this town. We're going to be here for a while."

"I love it already!" She was suddenly happy and carefree. The walk up Main street in the summer afternoon, the bundles in her arms, smelling pleasantly of food, gave her a delicious feeling of going home—home with her man by her side!

RENEWS FIGHT

Dunn Wants Bricker To List Married Couples On Payroll.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—Despite the death of his bill to prohibit a man and wife from both being employed by the state, Rep. Patrick J Dunn, D. Tuscarawas, has not given up the fight for his principle.

This was indicated last night when Dunn introduced in the house a resolution proposing that Governor Bricker be requested to submit to the legislature a list of husbands and wives who are on the state payroll, together with the salaries paid them.

CRESTLINE—Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Blubaugh of route 1, Crestline, are the parents of a daughter born Tuesday at Emergency hospital.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

ASTOWELA MEMBERS ANNOUNCE PROGRAM

Series of Events on Gardening Planned by Mansfield Organization; Party for Juniors, Show, Guest Speakers Scheduled.

UNDOUBTEDLY is is an ever recurring series of seasons which heartens club women sufficiently to encourage their preparing of far-reaching programs of events for their various garden clubs. Choosing the final day of March for the first meeting of the coming club season, the Astowela Garden club begins its fifth year on the Mansfield scene.

Mrs. M. E. Geipel and Mrs. L. W. Birch will take over the job of hostessing for the first session at which time Mrs. Emerson Weller will extend greetings to the club. Other officers this year are Mrs. George Holland, vice president; Mrs. Charles Sullens, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Geipel, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. H. G. Balyeat, conservation chairman.

Members of the board include Mrs. A. L. Price, Mrs. William Althouse and Mrs. Neil E. Remy. Regular programs with discussions of flowers, gardens, shrubs, and pests will follow in orderly procession through the year. On June 9 the club plans to entertain for the Junior Garden club with Mrs. Weller, Mrs. Ralph Walker, Mrs. Howard Keene and Mrs. Carl Willsey serving as the hostesses.

News of the Flower and Horse show which is being planned for June 10 and 11 at Raemelton Riding Academy is too good to keep any longer. So far this event is merely scheduled, but all the city's garden clubs are planning to take part in the event which promises to be the social occasion of the summer.

On June 23 all the clubs will meet at Westbrook Country club at 11 a. m. for a joint luncheon meeting and address by Paul B. Sears. The rest of the club year will be filled with regular events, with members providing programs, or an infrequent program by a guest speaker.

Richard Burton Guest of Honor At Celebration

Richard Burton was honored on his 11th birthday with a party given by his mother, Mrs. L. E. Burton, at their home on Sycamore street last evening. The young guests played games and contests during the evening, and prizes were awarded to Gerald Bishop and Richard Hecht. When refreshments were served, the long table was centered with a large birthday cake and decorated with pink and white appointments.

Those who attended the party were: Richard Fisher, Richard Hecht, Earl Auxter, Gerald Bishop, David McQuistion, John and Fred Walters. They all presented the honored guest with presents in celebration of the occasion.

Entertain Pastor, Wife At Covered-Dish Supper

Rev. and Mrs. Paul H. Saleste and their daughter, Vera, were the guests of honor at a covered-dish supper meeting of the Lucky 13 class of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church last night when Mrs. Clara Ritter and Mrs. Lottie Bernat were the hostesses.

The program which included musical selections by Mrs. Sophie Gregory and Charles Gilbert, was arranged by Miss Sue Kozik and Mrs. Ruth Ferguson. The prizes in contests were won by Miss Marianne Boebel, John Bernat, Carl Dupre and Richard Moyer. The next meeting will be April 19 at Twin Pines in Mifflin with the Misses Jean Gilbert, Marianne Boebel and Lillian Berry as hostesses.

Edward Beilstein, West Fifth street, H. A. Beilstein, West Fifth street, and Atty. H. G. Clark, Rowland avenue, are in Columbus on business today.

Employes Have Dinner For Mrs. Roy Myers

Women employes of the Sunglow Industries, Inc., entertained last night with a dinner at the Towne House in honor of Mrs. Roy Myers, the former Miss Sylvia Ververka. Dinner was served at tables decorated with green and yellow appointments.

Bridge and Chinese checkers were played, with prizes going to Mrs. W. L. Scheifley and Mrs. H. J. Bever. The group presented a gift to the recent bride.

SEED PROGRAM.

Mrs. Millard Bredbeck was in charge of the program on seed variation, and the planting demonstration which was presented before members of the Junior Garden Study club at the home of Miss Paula Brunk, 144 Vennum avenue. A social hour followed and it was announced that Shirley Berger, Park avenue west, would entertain April 4.

Name Town Hall Delegates From Mansfield Club

Mrs. Dwight Weir, Mrs. Paul Weir and Mrs. Charles F. Orr, jr., have been named to represent the Monday Study club in the Town Hall meeting at the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow evening. These appointments were made yesterday evening when members of the club met at the home of Mrs. Dwight Weir, 143 Parkwood boulevard. Mrs. Russell Gimbel served as associate hostess for the meeting, when 17 members were present.

During the program, Mrs. Colman Todd reviewed Dorothy Thompson's book "Refugees." Refreshments were served, buffet style, from a long table which was centered with a bowl of spring flowers and lighted with tall tapers. Mrs. Emerson Yocum presided at the table. She will entertain the group at her home on Park avenue west on April 3. Mrs. William Bloor will be the associate hostess at that time, when election of officers will be held.

Activities of Social Clubs

A 6 o'clock dinner was served to members of the Semper Fidelis club at the Evergreens last night when 11 gathered for a social session. The long table was decorated with a bowl of flowers and lighted tapers. Mrs. Howard Bittinger, South Diamond street, was the hostess for the games which followed. Prizes went to Mrs. Gurnay Marshall, Mrs. Mary Curtin and Mrs. Harry Sullivan. The next meeting will be April 11 with Mrs. Andrew Sunkel, Park avenue east.

* * *

The Poplar street home of Miss Evelyn Gongwer was the scene last night of the meeting of the Amigo club. Prizes were won by the Misses Georgia Barrett and Betty Koogle, and the hostess served a luncheon at the close of the evening. The next meeting will be April 11 at the home of Miss Lena Mae Teeters, Hammond avenue.

* * *

Miss Florence Matthes entertained eight members of the Navajo club last evening at her home on Park avenue west. Hearts were the evening's diversion, and score prizes were awarded to Mrs. Olive Matthes and Miss Callie Mengert. A color scheme of pink, green and white predominated when refreshments were served at the small tables. The next meeting of the club will be on April 4, at a place to be announced later.

* * *

Dinner was served last night at the home of Miss Vivian Shields, East Lawn boulevard, when a group of friends formed the Puella Debs club. Spring colors were used for decorations with a centerpiece of pastel flowers. A theater party followed the dinner. The next meeting will be with Miss Madonna Harman, Perry court, but the date was not announced.

* * *

There were two tables of bridge in play at the home of Mrs. Clarence Little, 560 West Townview circle, yesterday when she entertained the Buno Sera club. Mrs. E. C. Davison, Mrs. Herman Speas and Mrs. Ray Ulich won the prizes. Easter appointments included yellow and orchid candles and pastel sweet peas. Mrs. Earl Pratt, Cleveland, was a guest. The next meeting will be April 11 with Mrs. Neil Maxwell, 189 Johns avenue.

* * *

There were 15 members and two guests, Mrs. Hazel Reese and Mrs. Clarence Reech, present yesterday at the meeting of the E-T club when Mrs. Andrew Herring, Roe avenue, entertained. Bunco was played and Mrs. Leo Stuhldreher, Mrs. Reese and Miss Ethel McClure won prizes. Luncheon was served at a table decorated with yellow and green appointments and centered with jonquils. The next meeting will be April 11 at the home of Miss Stella Arras, Springmill street.

PLAY BRIDGE.

Mrs. Marion DeHart was hostess yesterday at the American Legion home, when members of the Bridge club gathered for a regular session. Prizes were won by Mrs. H. D. Moorhead, Mrs. Louis DeCamp, Mrs. Ralph Shively and Mrs. Charles Sanderson. The next meeting will be held March 28 instead of April 4 because of holy week. Mrs. Henry B. Emmer will be the hostess.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

WITH spring officially here and Easter only two weeks away . . . all feminine eyes are turned toward suits—a predominate must for milady's spring wardrobe. . . . These suits fall into three categories—man-tailored . . . dressmaker . . . and dressy. Each is quite as fashionable as the other and your choice depends entirely upon your personal likes.

* * *

Navy blue and black are the leading colors for this year's suits because their smartness can be heightened with accents in accessories of japonica, chartreuse, cyclamen and fuchsia shades. If, however, you prefer a colored suit—they can be had in soft novelty weaves in such shades as rose, blue, wheat and multi-colored checks, stripes or plaids.

* * *

This year's man-tailored suit is fashioned with a longer jacket than ever before, and a slim fitted skirt—which has either side slashes or front pleats. The jackets have a one button closing. . . . Here navies and blacks lead the field—with a good many hair-line stripes of white . . . tailored twills and regular men's suiting are the materials used most.

* * *

If you're one of those persons who doesn't like her clothes too tailored—nor yet too dressy to be worn for most all occasions . . . you're sure to find that a dressmaker suit is just what you've been looking for all the time. . . . These suits are tailored from soft wool materials and gabardines with flared, gored or full pleated skirts . . . tucked waists . . . soft detailing over the bustline and many buttoned closings. . . . I saw a smart black and white checked suit of this type the other day. . . . It was fashioned from a soft wool fabric, buttoned down the front and topped with a matching reefer coat.

THE more dressy suits this season are also cut along dressmaker lines—but they have just a few added touches which make them something extra-special—bright scarfs . . . full Gibson Girl shoulders . . . flared skirts . . . trapunto (quilted embroidery to most of us!) trim. . . . Most of them are fashioned from soft materials in shades with such interesting names as clearview . . . dawn blue (these are both our old friend aqua) . . . atlantique green (a grayed blue-green) . . . citron . . . cyclamen and other high shades. If you're still a little girl or just want to look like one again, then you should have one of those "little girl" suits which also fall into this class. . . . I saw a very pretty black one yesterday which had a full circular skirt and short bolero jacket—highlighted with wide revers of white pique at the neck.

The three-piece suit is also a favorite. . . . This year's topper is either multi-colored tweed, novelty weave, wool homespun or lustertone . . . and most always the underjacket is collarless. . . . If you're conservative, you're bound to like the navy tailored twill, which one of the downtown shops is showing now. . . . It has a white hairline stripe with a full length box coat. . . . But perhaps you go in for brighter things, and if so, I saw just the coat for you—the jacket and swagger topper were made from navy and royal blue checked tweed to harmonize with the navy skirt.

And if you want variety and the fun of assembling your own spring suit . . . be sure to combine three colors with a touch of check or plaid somewhere in the ensemble. . . . I saw Jane Wilson (here for a vacation from the Fred Waring show in New York) wearing a bright blue knife pleated skirt, collarless jacket of yellow, blue and white plaid tweed, yellow suede hat (with a touch of blue) and gloves. . . . With this Jane wore a lustertone topper in a soft yellow-gold shade. . . . She did look extremely smart . . . and you could almost hear her coming because she was wearing an East Indian ring which had five jingling little silver bells attached to it.

NO MATTER what style suit you finally decide on, be sure to have one of those dainty "pretty girl" blouses to wear with it. . . . Some are fashioned from chiffon, others from organdy and still others from eyelet batiste. . . . They can be had in white or any one of the high spring shades you might prefer with lots of frills, lace, ruffles and tucks to make you appear completely feminine. . . . One of the prettiest of these blouses I've seen is made of lingerie chiffon with a round neck—circled by rows of dainty lace, there's smocking on the shoulders and sleeve bands—the front of the neck is shirred and the waist closes with a girdle effect.

BREATH OF SPRING: Some of the leading perfumers have manufactured a lot of spring floral scents to accompany all this "little girl prettiness," so you'd best complete your costume with one of the many delicate flower fragrances that can now be had in bottles—apple blossom, June geranium, orange blossom and jasmine are only a few of these.

* * *

Note: The styles described above are available in Mansfield shops. You can learn where they may be obtained if you will telephone Marianne at The News-Journal between 1 and 2:30 p. m.—Canal 4251.

Sorority Names Dance Orchestra

It was announced that Tommy Van's orchestra had been engaged for the Alpha Pi Sigma formal spring dance which will be held April 29 at the Mansfield-Leland hotel last night when the sorority members met at the hotel. During the business it was also announced that the formal initiation date had been advanced from April 18 to May 2.

Bridge was played at the close of the meeting with prizes going to Miss Isabel Gerstmeyer and Mrs. Alyce Vahar. The Misses Esther and Katherine Pfaff were the hostesses for the social hour. The next meeting will be a routine business session with no social affair at the hotel on April 4.

Welcome New Member At Meeting Last Night

Mrs. Jack Augustine was welcomed as a new member of the Amoma class of St. Matthews Lutheran church last evening when 25 members of that group met at the home of Mrs. Thomas Butts on Rae avenue. Associate hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Russell Harbaugh, Mrs. Steve Konves, Mrs. Wayne Shambaugh and Mrs. Carl Shambaugh.

Games and contests were in play during the evening, and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Clyde Bonham and Mrs. Doris Orr. Refreshments were served at the small tables with Easter appointments predominating. The next class meeting will be held on April 18, with Mrs. Pearl Perrine, Mrs. Verne Lipscomb and Mrs. Gail Yontz acting as hostesses.

ROUTINE SESSION.

A routine business session was conducted in the Bird building club rooms last night when members of the C. L. of C. gathered and planned a covered-dish dinner. The affair will precede the next regular meeting which is scheduled for April 18 at the club rooms. At this time the bridge and five hundred tournament will be resumed.

SEW FOR CHARITY.

There were 16 members of the Charity club present for a meeting of that organization at the home of Mrs. John Burns on West Second street yesterday. The group spent the day sewing for Mansfield General hospital and the Visiting Nurses' association. The time and place of the next meeting will be announced in the near future.

PLAN THEATER PARTY.

When members of the Business Girls class of the First Christian church met recently with Miss Jean Shirley, 733 West Fourth street, plans were made to conduct a theater party April 17. Miss Alfaretta Bowden was associate hostess, and contest prizes were awarded to the Misses Amy Kline and Belle Bainter. Miss Margaret Wheeler was a guest.

CHI SIGMA SESSION.

When members of the Chi Sigma sorority met at the Prospect park pavilion last evening, they conducted "ruff" initiation for the 11 pledges of the organization. Formal initiation ceremonies will be held next Tuesday evening in the Chinese room at the Mansfield-Leland hotel with Miss Wilma Snider and her committee in charge of arrangements.

Cottage cheese may be made in any farm home without extra equipment.

Name New Officers of Sorosis at Meeting; Program Presented

WHEN members of the nominating committee of the Mansfield Sorosis submitted the names of candidates for officers last night at the Women's Club an election followed. Members of the committee included Mrs. W. W. Purdy, president, Miss Ruth Culbertson and Miss Bertha Patterson. Mrs. W. R. King was named to the presidency to succeed Mrs. John Angle.

Mrs. W. E. Wygant, who entertained, is the new vice president; Mrs. William J. Bishop, secretary, and Miss Grace Courtney, treasurer. Mrs. S. D. Hoover presented the first paper on the topic "History and Government In Iceland." After speaking of the geographical formation of the country she told of the religion, government, schools, customs, occupations and social life.

"Iceland was the first country to grant women's rights," she stated, adding that in Iceland there is no crime, no unemployment, no poverty and no illiteracy.

Miss Patterson then spoke on "The Romance of Rayon." She told that rayon was the third in the world's textile fibers. She spoke of the source and the processes of manufacture, describing briefly the plant at Burlington, and at Painesville. There were 23 members who answered roll call with adages. The next meeting will be April 4 at the Club with Mrs. Hoover as hostess.

Coming Marriage Told At Meeting Of Club

Announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Elizabeth Marie Gretten and Jacob Hartman was made last night by the sister of the bride-elect at a meeting of the Susan Sturges club at the Friendly House. Mrs. Harry Baker read the announcement from a large shamrock. Decorations of green and white were used.

Miss Gretten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gretten, Clairmont avenue, and Mr. Hartman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hartman, Auburn avenue, will wed April 15 at St. Peter's Catholic church in an open church ceremony to be read at 8 a. m. A kitchen shower was given the bride-elect, and Miss Lucille Fetter, presented her prize to the honoree.

Plan April Meet Of Linnaeus Club

A dessert-luncheon will be served to members of the Linnaeus Garden club April 11 when Mrs. Charles Chew, 82 Highland avenue, will be hostess, it was announced yesterday when the members gathered at the home of Mrs. Marion Brinkerhoff, 43 Penn avenue, for a 1 p. m. luncheon. Mrs. Fred Dippman served as associate hostess.

The table was decorated with bowls of spring flowers. Mrs. S. E. Taylor, club horticulturist, described the yucca, and presented Mrs. Harvey Lanehart with the prize for the scrap-books which were displayed and judged.

A round table discussion of "Dormant Branches and Pruning" was led by Mrs. Harry Armstrong.

Star Class Conducts Spelling Bee Tuesday

When members of the Star of Hope class of the South Main Street Evangelical church met a spelling bee was held. There were six guests and 30 members present when Mrs. Estella Solomon opened the meeting with a devotional period. Flute selections were played by the Misses Janet Werner, Ruth Hockett, Pearl Danbarck and Louis Ohler.

Refreshments were served with Mrs. Margaret Hutzelman in charge. Frances Turner, Maurine Hockett and Mrs. F. O. Haldeman were the associate hostesses. The next meeting will be April 18 with Mrs. Clifford Hall in charge.
